AWAKE OR ASLEEP THESE EIGHT TINY TADS NEED HOMES

Good afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Edmonton Goodfellow! Some of us got a little tired waiting for the photographer man to come to take our pictures and we just concluded to have a little nap so's you could see what we looked like asleep. Don't make any mistake. Those tads with their eyes open aren't a bit smarter than those of us taking 40 winks. But asleep or awake we need a home, each one of us, and The Bulletin picture man says you'll like us just the same. We want someone to sing a lullaby, coddle us and make us fine boys and girls.

ITALY REKINDLES FLAMES OF WAR

IL DUCE CALLS MORE MEN TO FASCISTI ARMS

By JEAN ALLARY
Copyright 1935, By the Havas News Agency

ROME, May 30.—Italy is calling another military class to the colors, with further units of the black-shirted Fascist troops, it was learned authoritatively today in what is regarded here as an effort to show an apprehensive Britain and an equally perturbed France that the Italian government is ready to do its duty as a European power, even if it is obliged to send many of its troops toAfrica.

The class of 1912 is expected to be mobilized, and when it is, Premier Benito Mussolini will have 900,000 men under arms.

It is apparent that the fears expressed by "certain friendly nations" that Italy has been weakened at a time of "serious uncertainty" in Europe by its operations in East Africa have played their part in the new mobilization. All units sent to Africa are being replaced almost immediately by other specially-created units.

Last Friday King Victor Emmanuel presented flags to 16 new regiments thus constituted, which is taken as another demonstration that for every man sent to Africa another man is ready and available here.

The new decision was regarded in informed quarters as an indication Italy is still determined to play a lone and independent hand in its dispute with Ethiopia.

Fate Of Rattenbury Widow, Consort In Hands Of Jurymen

LONDON, May 30.—Admission his client struck the fatal blow, but it was an act of insane jealousy while under the influence of drugs, and murder was never intended, was the closing plea of counsel for 18-year-old George Stoner this afternoon as the Bournemouth triangle case neared its end. Stoner and Mrs. Alma Rattenbury are accused of the murder of the woman's elderly husband, Francis Rattenbury, the night of March 24.

Addressing the jury before another packed court-room, J. D. Casswell, counsel for Stoner, acknowledged the boy's co-defendant did not strike the blow which caused Rattenbury's death four days later.

But he stressed testimony Stoner was addicted to drugs and was under their influence that day, and that he was insanely jealous of his mistress's husband.

There was no attempt to escape, he pointed out, and asked the jury to return a verdict of guilty but insane, or of manslaughter.

The crown prosecutor, R. P. Croom-Johnston, contended, however, there was ample motive to "get rid of" the husband. A visit of the prisoners to London suggested their opportunities for illicit intercourse were insufficient, he said.

He pointed to quarrels between the Rattenburys over money and said throughout the youth had been dominated by Mrs. Rattenbury, who for years had lied to her husband about money and for months had "grossly deceived him."

The crown insisted the two had a common motive, that they were equally guilty, that Mrs. Rattenbury herself took part in the attack.

RICH RANSOM IS READY FOR KIDNAP THUGS

$200,000 Purse Hidden in Secret Place for Boy's Release

TACOMA, Wash., May 30.—Reports the kidnappers of George Weyerhaeuser had been communicated with and $200,000 ransom was in a secret hiding place awaiting delivery, led to a belief today the nine-year-old lumber heir would be released today or tomorrow.

Noticeable relaxation of tension among authorities and a report two contact men had been named by the family lent strength to the theory the boy was safe and soon would be returned to his distracted parents.

A friend of the Weyerhaeuser family said the ransom—a 50-pound stack of 20,000 federal reserve notes in $5, $10 and $20 denominations—lay in a secret hiding place ready for the "payoff."

The Seattle Times said it had positive information the $200,000 ransom was assembled at the federal reserve bank here and sent to the Weyerhaeusers Tuesday morning.

Also adding to the belief the boy would be quickly returned, was the statement of a high ranking Tacoma police officer who expressed the belief today the curly-haired boy had been snatched by "local talents" and was still in the city.

"The kidnappers are in some house or apartment where they have been living two or three months," said the official who asked that his identity not be revealed.

JOHNSON SEES WAGES SLASH ORGY ON WAY

Calls on NRA Beneficiaries To Demand Benefit Continuance

WASHINGTON, May 30—The original champion of NRA, Hugh S. Johnson, last night took the cause of the demolished recovery agency to the country with a broadcast speech asserting huge gains had been lost through "one explosive thunder" from the Supreme court.

Hugh Johnson

Johnson, who conducted nationwide speaking campaigns in behalf of NRA during the administration's launching of the recovery agency, sketched the condition of industry prior to the inception of NRA, an era, he said, of cost cutting, including wages, by which "The ghouls of industry survived."

With the institution of NRA, he said, a new method was applied by which the "chiselling fringe" of any industry was prevented from using guerilla methods to promote its business.

With invalidation of NRA, Johnson continued, price cutting began at once.

Johnson appealed to what he termed the millions of "beneficiaries" of NRA to inform their congressmen that they desired those benefits continued.

"If you do not act immediately we will see the worst orgy of wage-cutting possible," he said.

Johnson added that he believed legislation could be framed which would make NRA stronger and more permanent.

U.S. HONORS SOLDIER DEAD

NEW YORK, May 30.—The United States saluted its war dead today. Crippled veterans and carefree children took part in a pageant which, alternately solemn and martial, spread from coast to coast.

President Roosevelt joined in the observance at Washington, where a stand at the White House was provided for review of the annual parade there. The Arlington national cemetery, where lies the unknown soldier, was the scene of other ceremonies.

Army posts thundered 21-gun salutes and the navy lent the destroyer Badger to the old glory naval post of the American Legion for a service at sea. A wreath was to be dropped into the water off New York harbor.

FLANDIN FATE IN BALANCE AS FRANC WAVERS

Young French Premier to Make Personal Appeal To Deputies

PARIS, May 30—The life of the Flandin government was hanging in the balance this afternoon as an uncertain chamber of deputies awaited the young premier's final personal appeal before deciding whether to accord him the strongest powers granted a French premier since Poincare saved the franc in 1926.

The powerful radical Socialist party was still undecided after Edouard Herriot, leader and former premier, told a caucus, "If you refuse the government's demand for plenary powers, you will become partizans of devaluation in spite of yourselves."

The vote is expected at a late hour tonight. Premier Pierre Flandin spent the afternoon in his offices preparing his speech, in which he will appeal to the deputies' patriotism to drop party differences.

BENNETT ASKS POWER OVER GOLD MOVES

Wishes to Meet Situations Requiring Speedy Action

OTTAWA, May 30.—Power to meet any situation that might require quick action on the value of gold will be sought in parliament by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, he informed the House of Commons Wednesday, but he gave definite assurance that he had no present intention of taking any such action.

Mr. Bennett's announcement he would introduce a permissive bill, to be effective only when proclaimed, empowering the governor-in-council to fix the value of gold, was taken to indicate a desire that Canada might be ready to deal at any time with other nations in the matter of currency stabilization and also to meet any situation that might arise from action taken by other countries.

450,000 MINERS FACING STRIKE

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Strike orders for 450,000 United States soft coal miners were being prepared today but officials of the United Mine Workers and mine operators held that congress might avert the walkout by speedily authorizing "a little NRA" for the industry.

John T. Lewis, president of the union, said instructions to strike unless a new wage agreement has been signed by June 16 would be sent to 6,000 of the miners' local organizations within a few days.

Texan Thrill Killer Slays Fourth Victim

ANGLETON, Texas, May 30.—Cylde Thompson who at 17 said he killed two youths "just to see them kick" slew his fourth victim last night.

He stabbed Everett Melvin, Potter County robber, to death in a brawl at the Retrieve prison farm here. Then he remarked to Capt. Ike Kelly, farm manager:

"Well, Cap, it looks like I'm in trouble again."

Thompson was first convicted for slaying Lucian and Leon Shook in 1928. At his trial he said he killed them "just to see them kick." He was sentenced to death but the sentence was commuted to life.

Three years ago he stabbed to death Tommy (The Squealer) Reis, Galveston robber. He was then given another life sentence.

As W. M. Davidson Sees Aberhart's Social Credit

Pioneer Western Editor, Former Member of the Alberta Legislature, Analyzes Important Issue for Bulletin Readers—Says Campaign for Social Credit of Greatest Importance to Alberta

By W. M. DAVIDSON

Price fixing, based on the Aberhart system of valuation, would lead to gross favoritism, and with bureaucratic interference, would make business difficult and expensive and eventually impossible.

In previous articles I have shown that the Aberhart plan (1) although revolutionary and untried is vague and obscure, (2) unconstitutional, (3) based on economic fallacy, (4) involving greatly increased tax burdens, (5) with new and objectionable taxation, (6) with a threat of dreaded inflation, and (7) the plan of just price based on a new system of valuation would be difficult, expensive and really impossible.

Many Alberta people do not understand that the Aberhart plan

FIFTEEN BABES FINDING HOMES IN EDMONTON

Applications and Inquiries Continue to Pour in On Officials

"This is the day they give babies away, with a half-a-pound of tea." It is not, however, just a day that babies are being given away during the Alberta "Adopt-a-Baby" campaign. For four days, the list of lucky babies, formerly homeless and without loving parents, has grown, and up to the present time no fewer than fifteen youngsters have found the homes they so badly needed.

Applications and enquiries continue to pour in, from the city and from the country, so widespread is the news disseminated by The Edmonton Bulletin that babies are to be had for those who feel the need for a healthy, happy child to love and foster.

BLACK FEVER IN CHINA RAGING

TSINGKIANG, China, May 30.—Black fever, the scourge of this district, conservatively estimated to have killed more than 100,444 people in this city and surrounding areas since 1921, is again filling all of the hospitals with patients stricken with the dread disease.

The cause and cure has now been found and a special school designed to train 60 doctors in a special course of treatment has been established.

STRAW HAT HARBINGER OF SUMMER

Spring, summer or something is certainly here at last!

The first pussy willow, the first crocus or the first robin may or may not all be signs of spring but none is definite.

When you see the first straw hat, however, you can banish all doubts about the matter. Wednesday morning a Bulletin reporter "twigged" this first real harbinger of the good old summer time on a street car travelling to the city from the Alberta Ave. district.

The citizen seemed quite oblivious of the fact he was the "first" of the season.

Germany Is Ready For League With New Air Locarno

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 30.—Germany is entering the door which the British government has repeatedly said would be left open to her, to join in collective security. In response to the British appeal to make a definite offer the German government today submitted to the other Locarno powers the draft of the air Locarno by which it is hoped to put teeth in the Locarno pact—extending it to include mutual guarantees against aerial aggression.

The foreign office has received a copy of the German draft and others have gone to the governments of France, Italy and Belgium. Extreme secrecy is maintained in Whitehall in regard to the provisions of the plan, but it is understood to follow the general lines of the air Locarno contemplated in the Anglo-French declaration of Feb. 3. Other capitals have previously gone to work on drafts of their own.

MUTUAL GUARANTEES

The plan had in view not only mutual guarantee of the Locarno powers against air attack, but limitation of air armaments. It went further than the existing Locarno treaties guaranteeing the frontier between Germany and France, and Germany and Belgium. In these Great Britain and Italy appear merely as guarantors. They are not themselves guaranteed assistance if attacked. But in the pro-

ALBERTA WILL GET $750,000 OTTAWA LOAN

Agriculture and Jobless Relief Included in Total Sum

OTTAWA, May 30—Further loans from the federal treasury to Alberta and British Columbia, to a total of $2,250,000 for various relief purposes, were announced by finance minister E. N. Rhodes today. British Columbia gets $1,000,000 of which $500,000 is for reloan to the municipalities to cover their share in relief expenditures.

$500,000 for provincial-municipal flood relief costs arising from the destructive freshets and snow-slides of early spring is also included.

The Alberta government will get $750,000 for agricultural relief including seed and seeding operations for the crop year 1935, and $500,000 to assist the province in paying its share of unemployment relief expenditures.

Made upon the authority of the Relief Act the loans are secured by provincial treasury bills bearing interest at 4½ per cent payable half yearly. Smaller loans to both provinces were announced earlier this week.

FRANC DEVALUE IS ON ITS WAY

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 30.—Financial circles here expect devaluation of the French franc by the week-end. Extent of the devaluation, considered inevitable in view of the huge flight of gold from France, is estimated at anything from 15 to 25 per cent.

One result of devaluation of the franc probably would be a movement back to France of the ready money which has recently been drifting to London and consequently a fall in sterling.

BOY CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS DIES OF HURTS

8-Year-Old Gordon Taunton Victim of Accident On 100 Avenue

A moment after he had waved good-bye to his mother, who watched from her front window in the Arlington apartments, as he left for school at 8:30 a.m. Thursday, eight-year-old Gordon "Gordie" Taunton was crushed between two cars. Rushed to the Royal Alexandra hospital, he died three hours later from multiple injuries, despite a gallant effort by Dr. R. J. Bennett and the hospital staff to save him.

The boy turned to cross the narrow street, Victoria avenue, on which cars were parked along both curbs. He stepped out from between two cars, in the path of a coupe driven by Simon Freestone, 9948 104 street, who was driving west and swerved to the right to avoid him.

The lad darted back to the north curb, apparently trying to avoid both Freestone's car and another which approached from the west.

Freestone, in an effort to miss the boy, crashed his car into the

'TOOTHLESS' TRADE COMMISSION CONSIDERED

PROPOSED BILL FOR 5-MAN BOARD OF MERE PROBERS

Investigatory, Not Mandatory Powers, to be the Basis on Which Federal Commission Operates.

MONTREAL, May 30—In a dispatch from its Ottawa correspondent the Montreal Star Wednesday stated proposed legislation creating a federal trade commission was studied by members of the government at a special sitting preliminary to notice being given of its introduction.

Indications are, the despatch states, a commission of five will be created but that its powers will be essentially investigatory in their nature rather than mandatory in the orders they can give to trade and industry.

Authority of the board is proposed to run along the following lines, the despatch continues:

PACT SANCTIONING

1. Sanction of price and production agreements between producers where such agreements are held to be not detrimental to the public intrest.

2. Administration of the Combines Act. Heretofore, in the opinion of the price spreads commission, the enforcement was not very active, an occasional inquiry being made when complaints were presented, with a prosecution sometimes following. These instances have not been very frequent, and in one notable case still before the courts proceedings were delayed by a long argument as to the respective responsibilities of the Dominion and the province particularly concerned.

QUALITIES CONTROL

3. Creation of consumer standards relating to the quality of articles, the size of containers and the contents thereof.

4. Enforcement of various statutes relating to unfair practices in trade. There are about 30 of such enactments at present, some in conflict with others. The purpose would be to co-ordinate them.

5. Fair trade conferences under the auspices of the commission. These would be voluntary efforts to adjust differences over business methods. In great Britain the board of trade very often acts as an intermediary in such cases.

6. Power to co-operate with boards of trade in the promotion of general commercial activity.

BENNETT ASKS POWER OVER GOLD MOVES

ufory gold coverage is only 25 per cent. For this reason it was not assumed that the prime minister's announcement could be associated with any inflationary act.

Announcement of the proposal to seek permissive legislation came when the prime minister was being questioned on gold taken over by the Bank of Canada from the chartered banks. The question was raised by Ian Mackenzie (Lib. Vancouver Centre).

GOLD FROM BANKS

About $36,000,000 in gold was taken over from the chartered banks and slightly in excess of $71,000,000 from the Dominion government, representing all the gold reserves. The value was at the normal rate of $20.67 an ounce, now enhanced in its potential value by the increased world price of around $35.

Mr. Bennett said an order-in-council had been passed during the Easter recess fixing the amount of the gold taken from chartered banks which might be considered applicable to their foreign obligations and therefore affected by the increased world price. The percentage would be announced later, he said.

Formosa Is Rocked By New Quake

LONDON, May 30—Exchange Telegraph dispatches last night said an earthquake similar in intensity to the one in April which killed more than 3,000, had struck the Japanese-owned island of Formosa but heavy casualties were not expected.

The reports said inhabitants engaged in reconstruction were panic-stricken by the new shock and were evacuating.

Reuters (British) News Agency dispatches said the shock was comparatively strong in Taichu and Shinchiku provinces, but was light at Taihogu. No casualties have yet been reported, the agency said.

low fence which guarded the boulevard, expecting he would break through. But the fence held and he skidded along the rail, his left front fender striking the right rear fender of a parked Chevrolet sedan, owned by Eric Pecknold, Arlington resident.

The boy was caught between the two colliding fenders and bumpers, his body badly mangled. The impact of the cars knocked the parked vehicle ahead about 30 feet.

CONCUSSION OF BRAIN

Taken immediately in a McNeill's ambulance to the hospital, it was found that he suffered concussion of the brain, fractured thigh and left arm, and multiple contusions and brasions. An anesthetic to allow full examination could not be administered in the child's serious state. Arrangements were rapidly made to give a blood transfusion, but life passed before this possible aid could be given.

Freestone, driver of the coupe, stated he was proceeding west along the avenue, at about 15 or 20 miles an hour. There was a lot of traffic in the opposite direction. The boy ran out in the street and then suddenly turned back. "I tried to get around and avoid hitting him, but I couldn't do it," he said.

Grieved over the sudden fatality, the mother, Mrs. W. A. Taunton did not return to her apartment from the hospital, where she had spent the morning. Mr. Taunton called at the block for his six-year-old daughter, Joan, and took his family to the home of a friend. They are expected to move from the building.

Mr. Taunton is an employe of the C.N.R.

Sergeant-Major Fraser and Constable Crawford of the city police conducted investigations into the circumstances of the accident and it is expected that an inquest will be held.

DISTRICT CALF CLUB CONTESTS HUGE SUCCESS

Sidney Morris, N. Edmonton, Wins With Grand Champion Steer

Forty-five young farmers and farmerettes of this district came to the city Wednesday morning for the Edmonton Calf Club Fair and went home at night, well satisfied that they had enjoyed a day of thrills and pleasure as guests of leading Edmonton district stockmen.

Divided into two sections, east and west with duplicate prize lists, the competition was open to boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 20, living within a 20-mile radius of the Edmonton post office.

SIDNEY MORRIS WINS

Sidney Morris of North Edmonton won the prize of the day with his grand champion steer which copped $70 award money, a silver cup and a $10 halter. The steer brought 32½ cents per pound from the T. Eaton Company.

Albertin Handfield of Beaumont won the reserve championship and his steer was sold to T. Eaton Co. for 22 cents per pound. Standing third in the eastern section was C. F. Kallal; fourth, Paul Kallal; fifth, Clarence Rivard and sixth Remi Goudreau.

In the western section William Burdick was first; George Tudge, second; Miriam McIntyre, third; Elma Rye, fourth; Roger Baert, fifth and Napoleon Herbert, sixth.

Miriam McIntyre was the envy of all the girl exhibitors when with her calf she won a permanent wave with all the trimmings.

The Woodland Dairy did their part to make it a big day for the visiting stockmen, feeding the gathering ice cream at the basket lunch served at the exhibition grounds. In the afternoon the boys and girls were guests of Rollie Keil at the Strand theatre.

NO NATIONAL GOVERNMENT SAYS STEVENS

TORONTO, May 30—There is little likelihood of a national government guiding the destinies of Canada, Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce, declared here Wednesday.

The only manner in which a national government could come about, said Mr. Stevens, would be through failure of the next administration to implement recommendations of the royal commission on mass buying and price spreads.

If this were not done, the former minister declared "chaos would result."

"Unless the reforms recorded in the report (the mass buying report) or readjustments of the economic structure along those lines that would achieve the same end, are the guiding and determined policy of the government successful at the next election, then in my opinion a chaotic condition will result.

"A laissex-faire policy at that time or anything short of a vigorous policy in that direction will result in a chaos out of which might come a national government—or even a left government," said Mr. Stevens.

ENGLISH NET STARS VICTORS

PARIS, May 30—England's great Davis Cup singles stars, Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin, entered the quarter-finals of the French hard court tennis championships today with one-sided victories in the fourth round.

Austin dropped the comeback campaign of young Andre Merlin, eliminating the young Frenchman, 6-0, 6-1, 6-4, while Perry, generally rated as the No. 1 player of world tennis, made short work of Don Turnbull of Australia, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Merlin looked like a novice against Austin's brilliant play. The Briton reeled off nine games in a row before Merlin could reach even deuce and there never was any doubt as to the outcome.

Perry, never extended by Turnbull, will meet Christian Boussus of France in the quarter-finals while Austin faces Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia. Boussus rallied after a slow start to eliminate Harry Hopman of Austria, 2-6, 5-7, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0. Menzel won his place in the last eight yesterday.

In the women's division, Lolette Payot of Switzerland defeated Jean Peyre of France, 5-7, 6-1, 6-3, to gain a place in the quarter-finals.

The last eight in men's singles was completed with Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath of Australia and Marcel Bernard of France taking the last three places.

Bernard, named yesterday to the French Davis Cup team for the first time, played superbly to eliminate Giorgio De Stefani of Italy, 6-3, 9-7, 6-3. Crawford disposed of Josef Caska of Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 9-7, 6-1, and McGrath won from Margin Leguay of France, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0, 7-5.

CAT CAME BACK WHEN SHIP BERTHED

TORONTO, May 30—The pet cat of the package freighter, Pinebay, has again boarded ship after being given up for lost. "Tiddles" missed the boat in Toronto more than a month ago but Monday the year-old cat walked aboard the Pinebay at the Welland canal. How pussy managed to get from Toronto to Welland is the puzzle in nautical circles.

Wanderlust Rolls Up "Lost Child" Queries

Toddling For Adventure

When the warm sunshine of May days strikes and the leaves begin to show, the call of the open road gets them and gets them at all ages.

Toddling tots taking to the distant horizons have beset city police for the past two weeks with jangling telephones and anguished parents on the other end of the line, weeping mites whom the kindly cop on the beat carries into the police station, and many other calls that, "We've found a child. What shall we do with him (or her)?"

For the past two weeks constables have been bringing an average of two children a day into the station, Desk Sergeant Reg Jennings says. Unless they are identified in the station they are just kept there until their parents telephone or come for them.

Sergeant Jennings was making out his rations requisition for prisoners' meals, while a flaxen-haired little girl in the next room sobbed for her "mummy."

"I'm going to put an order in for jam," the sergeant said. "All that little child needs is a good big piece of bread and jam and she'll stop crying. I'll just have to get it, that's all."

The little girl continued to weep while R.C.M.P. Corporal Keeler attempted to cajole her into a smile. But it took big Jim McMurray of the traffic squad to solve the difficulty. Getting a flimsy paper report sheet, he thoroughly wiped her nose.

Not only do the police bring in about two a day, Sergt. Jennings said, but there are about four cases a day that never go on the occurrence reports. These are instances when people phone in that they have a child who is lost. We ask them to keep the child, take a note of the name and, when the parents inquire, put them in touch with the person who called.

plicants, who have visited the child placing office in the attorney-general's department, where the campaign is being sponsored, and were determined that they would only adopt a girl, came away finding themselves the foster parents of a bouncing boy. Large blue or brown eyes and a little wistful face make an appeal that nobody who loves children and has a good home in which to place one can resist.

Up to the present time ten boys and five girls have been adopted, while most of the remaining babies are boys.

Dusky of hue and with appealing brown eyes, a little colored baby girl is still waiting at the Royal Alexandra hospital for some kind people to come forward and say that they want her for their own.

AT GRACE HOSPITAL

At Grace hospital, ranging in age from two to five months, seven scraps of humanity are hoping that they, too, will have the chance of a home and loving care.

Love for children is the primary factor in the adoption of a child, but there are thousands of married couples, denied the happiness of a child of their own, who can find joy and a purpose in life by taking for their own, one of these delightful scraps of humanity, who, as they grow up, will prevent their foster parents from having to face a lonely old age.

And very few there are who do not fulfill the task of providing happiness and contentment to their parents. The return of an adopted child is so rare, says C. B. Hill, child placing officer, that such records are practically nil.

Once within the protection of their new parents, the babies make their way straight into the hearts of their protectors, for whom this worthwhile purpose has made life fuller and complete.

Acid Thrower Burns Chief Of French Air Force

AIX-LES-BAINS, France, May 30—Pierre Cot, Minister of Air in the former Daladier cabinet, was spattered with a corrosive liquid thrown by an angry heckler last night while he was delivering a public lecture on the new military service law.

Cot was slightly burned on one ear, but concluded his speech. Police arrested five of his noisiest interrupters.

Pickets In Junk Shop Strike Use Knives Freely

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 30.—Oklahoma's first strike since the junking of NRA came in a junk shop.

Their wages cut, eight white men and more than 15 negroes walked out, and what they lacked in union organization, police said, was made up in picket line vigor. The manager said two negroes had been cut by pickets.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, May 30. — Six persons, two of them children, were killed yesterday when a passenger airplane crashed into the Ulua river, near Santa Barbada.

Three others were seriously injured. All the victims were natives of Honduras except the pilot, Ernest Voss, a German-American, whose home residence was believed to be San Francisco.

Well-informed quarters said that Germany specified that a full French first line air force of 1,700 planes must be taken as the limit for an air convention. It was said Germany is unwilling to accept the 1,500 planes stationed in France and North Africa as the maximum figure, as did England when Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, announced to the House of Commons that the Royal Air Force home unit would be increased to that figure.

WAWA LAKE HAS DEVELOPED ITS MONSTER

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 30—Loch Ness, Scotland, the Okanagan Lake in British Columbia, and British Columbia coastal waters, haven't got it all their own way.

Wawa Lake, in the heart of the Michipicoten district, has its own monster, it was learned today.

Robert Arnott, Peter Arnott, Jack Fisher, and Mose Jondreau, a fire ranger, all declare they saw the serpent. They declare the portion of its body which broke the surface of the water looked like a keg. No one has seen its head.

Preacher Baptises Then Kills

ORANGE, Tex., May 30.—Rev. Edgar Eskridge, 40, Baptist minister and vice crusader, was arrested late Wednesday as the shotgun slayer of Police Chief Ed. J. O'Reilly, whom he baptized into his church.

O'Reilly was fired upon from a motor car yesterday while standing on a street corner here conversing with a friend. Tuesday he arrested Mr. Eskridge on a charge of impersonating an officer during a raid early Sunday on the Silver Slipper night club near here.

Friends of the minister said he was highly incensed and drove around all Tuesday night in his motor car. Officers who arrested the minister 80 miles east of Orange said his car was "full of guns." He was placed in jail.

JAPANESE PERIL SINO GOVERNOR

TIENTSIN, May 30.—Six blank cannon shots tonight were fired in front of the residence of the Chinese governor of Tientsin by a detachment of 200 Japanese soldiers who rolled up to the building in armored cars.

The action was seen as a protest over refusal of the Governor to oust a magistrate known to hold anti-Japanese sentiments.

TOKYO, May 30.—A vigorous note of warning today was delivered to the Chinese military and political councils in Peiping by the Japanese minister urging that the Chinese execute "both the spirit and the letter" of the Tangku truce agreement, by which the Chinese authorities were to cease anti-Japanese activities and respected demilitarized zones in north China.

QUEER CRAFT HITS JASPER FROM COAST

"Shorty" Cleveland Pushing Model of Sailing Ship to Edmonton

JASPER, Alta., May 30—A queer craft arrived in Jasper late Wednesday afternoon bumping along the railway ties. It was the model of an old sailing vessel, a square rigger, now a rare sight even on the high seas and much more rare on a railway track. Pushing it was "Shorty" Cleveland, born in South Dakota and named as he admits for the president, Grover Cleveland, with no relation.

He has been living in and around Vancouver ever since 1912 when he became a naturalized Canadian citizen and has followed his profession of "hiker." Now he is hiking to Montreal and thence to Halifax. From there he goes to New York, Florida, through Texas to California and back to Vancouver to claim his reward.

TIMES LOOK BETTER

The journey is sponsored by private individuals of the coast. One of the rules of the hike is that he has to support himself on the trip by the sale of postcards. Times are looking better for "Shorty" as he moves eastward, for while he arrived in Kamloops with one cent, he had the whole sum of a nickel on reaching Jasper.

Hearing that the road would be good to Edmonton he heaved a big sigh, "That's good for I sure need it. I broke several pieces coming through the mountains, it was a rough trip."

In speaking of the proposed coast route of the highway via Blue River "Shorty" claims the grade one of the finest for highway building and shakes his head over the shortsighted policies of a government that overlooks this.

HEADING FOR CITY

The vessel was designed by a young Japanese school boy of the Vancouver technical school, George Abokata, and built by N. A. Bradbury and Donald A. Smith, also Tech students. He will advertise B. C. woods and B. C. products in the cross country journey which started from Vancouver April 26th. Within a few days "Shorty" and his queer craft with [illegible] snugly stowed away beneath the hatch, will be in Edmonton.

GOLDEN FRANC FLOW FROM FRANCE UNABATED

DEPUTIES SWAMP FLANDIN DEFENCE POWERS SCHEME

Undaunted in Face of Hostility Premier Will Carry Budgeting Appeal to Parliament.

PARIS, May 30.—A steady golden stream, uninterrupted despite strenuous efforts to halt the flight from the franc, flowed out from the Bank of France's vaults Wednesday as Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin suffered the first major set-back in his battle for dictatorial financial powers.

The Chamber of Deputies finance committee voted 25 to 15 against his bill requesting far-reaching authority to balance the budget, and defend the franc, emphasizing open hostility developing in parliament to the government's program. Some quarters said they believed Flandin might have to resign.

Unimpressed, however, Flandin said he would carry his appeal directly to the chamber today. Prosecution of persons speculating against the franc is contemplated, he announced, and evidence gathered has been sent to the ministry of justice.

Meanwhile the Bank of France's gold losses continued to average about 1,000,000,000 francs ($65,800,000) daily, with total losses since the movement began late in March estimated at some 11,000,000,000 francs (almost $716,000,000).

SENATE GIVES INSURANCE BILL ACTION

Liberal Amendments Killed as Measure Gets Third Reading

OTTAWA, May 30.—After two Liberal amendments had been voted down, the unemployment insurance bill Wednesday went through third reading in the senate.

An amendment moved by Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, that employes in non-manual receiving salaries in excess of $2,000 also should come under the bill and contribute to the insurance fund was defeated on division by 20 to 12. Hon. James Murdock (Lib. Ottawa) voted with Conservatives; but, with this exception, party lines stood solid.

BANK HELP REMAINS

Exception of employees of banks and financial institutions bringing the measure back to the provision it contained when passed by the commons was moved by Senator Walter E. Foster (Lib. Saint John) but was lost on a call for "contents" and "non-contents." The former New Brunswick Premier—a bank employee for a time in his very early career—encountered opposition from Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, senate leader, Senator W. A. Buchanan (Lib. Lethbridge) Senator W. A. Griesbach (Cons. Edmonton) and Senator Murdock.

"My amendment will put the employee receiving a modest salary on a parity with those who receive more than $2,000 per year," Senator Dandurand stated. Two-thirds of contributors to the insurance fund would not benefit under the act.

"I reckon 28 per cent of those contributors would be the utmost in times of a great crisis who would become unemployed," he declared.

NOT FAIR ALLOTMENT

It would be unfair for many employees with modest salaries, Senator Dandurand argued, to have to contribute $13 per year while those earning more than $2,000 annually would be "free from the element of taxation."

Fix Minimums B.C. Shipbuilding

VICTORIA, May 30.—Minimum wage regulations for the shipbuilding industry in British Columbia were fixed by the provincial board of industrial relations Wednesday.

The minimum wage for all adult males of 21 years of age or over is fixed at 67½ cents an hour. Males under 21 may be paid not less than 25 cents an hour. This provision was included, it was explained, to meet the case of youths learning the business.

The new scale will go into effect on June 14.

Yukon Relief

OTTAWA, May 30—Of the money voted for relief purposes at the 1930 special session of parliament $19,998 was expended in the Yukon territory, the House of Commons was told Wednesday in answer to a question by Olof Hanson (Lib., Skeena).

L. BOURASSA WAS BURIED ON WEDNESDAY

Funeral of Famous North Mail Carrier at Peace River

PEACE RIVER, May 30.—The body of Louis Bourassa, famous northern mail carrier who died of heart failure at his Keg River farm on May 22, arrived at one o'clock Wednesday morning by small motor boat that had been sent down stream by the people of the town after they became anxious over the delay in the arrival of the body.

The motor boat, in charge of John Unger, left here at two o'clock Tuesday and met the heavily laden Sullivan flotilla 30 miles down stream. The Sullivan boat pushing three scows against a high stage of water was making slow progress and will only arrive in port some time Wednesday afternoon. The body was transferred to the smaller craft and brought home.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon and interment made in the Roman Catholic cemetery at their mission eight miles up the river flats.

Northern ingenuity was brought into play in spite of the far-off place of death, 200 miles north, and a hermetically sealed casket was made before the body of the well-liked Bourassa was started on its last journey up the stream that had played a vital part in his life history, and upon the ice of which in bitter weather and sudden breakup a long story of his adventures could have been written.

CAUGHT ON RIVER

One trip in particular during the second week in December of 1926 when he was caught on a cutbank section of the river almost 100 miles down stream with a rise of 20 feet of water and a regular spring breakup coming down from above, is a northern legend.

Bourassa had read the earlier signs correctly and was making haste to find a place to get on the bank with his two teams and sleigh loads of mail, but had to get off the ice at midnight when the water was running on top of the ice. Before he succeeded, along with his companions, they were rescuing their belongings waist deep in water with nothing but the light of the stars. Incidentally, they were caught on the east bank of the river where no sign of a trail was ever in existence.

SEARCH STARTED

Patrols were sent out in search when Bourassa was three weeks overdue, but he was not located as he was on the wrong side of the river for habitation or traffic, but cutting and slashing, and almost out of grub, he turned up safe and sound and delivered his mail almost a month overdue.

Death has removed a colorful courier, who was honored the day before his death with the receipt of his medal for distinguished service, a membership in the Order of the British Empire.

Airplanes Carry Wounded Under Wings In Slings

MOSCOW, May 30.—A method of transporting wounded persons on stretchers suspended under the wings and fuselage of an airplane was successfully tried out Wednesday.

Three Red Cross doctors who volunteered for the experiment were tied in stretchers, with oval aluminum covers. One was suspended from each wing and one under the fuselage.

The plane took of, flew 200 kilometres (124.5 miles) and landed without mishap. The passengers said the ride was comfortable.

Press Women Laud Cora Hind

OTTAWA, May 30.—Tribute by newspaper-women of Canada to Dr. E. Cora Hind of the Winnipeg Free Press as "one of the greatest of their cult," was paid by the Canadian Women's Press Club here tonight at a banquet tendered by the government tourist bureau.

Held in the parliamentary restaurant, the function, of which Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways, acted as host, was attended by nearly 200 female members of the craft, with a mere quintette of males "gracing" the proceedings.

Bilingualism Has Difficulties

OTTAWA, May 30.—Canada is a bilingual country and sometimes it leads to difficulties. In the House of Commons yesterday the government was in the embarrassing position of having a bill constitutional in English and unconstitutional in French.

As drafted in English, a bill amending the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act was made constitutional by inserting the words "subject to the legislative jurisdiction of the parliament of Canada." In the French translation the key words were dropped for some reason not immediately determined.

Coal Operators Pick Mediator

DRUMHELLER, Alta., May 30.—Following three days of conference, domestic coal operators announced selection of Major C. Pipsett of Calgary as their representative on the conciliation board which in the near future will endeavor to settle the wage dispute between companies and miners in the Drumheller Valley. Election of an independent chairman, will, it is believed, be left to the government as the two members have so far been unable to agree on any one individual.

Campaign Who's-Who

By T. B. WINDROSS.

Michael Herbert Ponich, Conservative candidate in the Vegreville constituency for the provincial general elections, was born at Pakan, Alberta, on November 14, 1905, the year the province was created. His parents were Ukrainians, but his father came to Canada when 15 years old and his mother when she was 13, which makes Mr. Ponich a Canadian, of which he is proud, though he is also proud of the race from which he springs.

MICHAEL HERBERT PONICH.

When the family arrived in Edmonton they had travelled to this city by train, but from there they journeyed by means of a wagon drawn by oxen, purchased by young Michael's grandfather. They went direct to Pakan, which was an old Indian fort. They settled on a quarter section four miles northwest of Pakan and it was there that the present Conservative candidate was born. He is just 30 years old and a school teacher by profession.

The district was sparsely settled and the young Michael Ponich could not start school until he was nine, and then only in the summer months. Later he went to a boarding school at Smoky Lake, and graduated from the high school there. He later attended the Vegreville high school and then went to the Alberta College for a time, where he worked as night watchman, looking after the furnace at nights and attending classes in the day.

He went to the Edmonton normal school in 1928 and 1929, and taught school afterwards for 14 consecutive months. Then he became a student at the University of Alberta and has his second year in Arts and Science. At present he is teaching in the Brody school five miles northeast of Mundare. His wife, whom he married the year he registered at the university, is also a school teacher.

Mr. Ponich has made his own way in life since a boy and while getting an education has worked at various hard jobs, among them shovelling gravel on the railroad, digging C.P.R. irrigation ditches, farming and working in the Acme brick yard, Edmonton.

He is proud of the contribution to advancement being made by Ukrainians in Alberta and never ashamed to acknowledge his own race.

TORY PARTY TO CHOOSE LEADER

By THOS. WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, May 30—The Conservative party will insist on choosing its own leadership and will not accept willy nilly any appointee selected by the sovereign right of R. B. Bennett. Bennett has a right to nominate to Governor General, whom he shall call to premiership in succession to Mr. Bennett, but the party intends to have a say in Bennett's choice of a nominee.

The hierarchy of the party still is bent on keeping Stevens out of the leadership and to this end urges Bennett to remain at the helm until they can consolidate the position for a favored son of the party whom they will select, probably Meighen.

Quite a little propaganda now is seeping out that Bennett will continue in leadership but medical men in commons and senate shake their heads and murmur "no can do."

Members of the party are looking for an early showdown between Bennett and Stevens. It has to come.

Fairview Man Badly Hurt As His Team Bolts

FAIRVIEW, May 30.—Crossing a broken bridge in the Waterhole district while hauling gasoline to a threshing outfit, Steve Warenchuk of Fairview was thrown from the wagon, a barrel of gasoline falling on top of him. Alarmed by the noise, the team bolted, the wagon wheel passing over Warenchuk, breaking his collarbone and several ribs, and inflicting internal injuries. He is in Fairview hospital.

George Bennett, Jr., is also nursing a broken arm received while working on the Peace River ferry at Dunvegan last Saturday. At the time he was relieving his father, the regular ferryman, who was ill, and who died later on Sunday. Mr. Bennett, Sr., was a returned man who had served four years in the Great War.

Torontonian Held On Serious Charge

TORONTO, May 30.—Viano Ramo was committed to stand trial on a charge of manslaughter, arising out of the death of Mrs. Ida Rinne, Wednesday. An inquest jury which named Ramo heard Mrs. Rinne was fatally cut by a fragment of a beer bottle.

ALBERTA CAR PRICE SPREADS ESTABLISHED

Tariff Board Sitting At Calgary Hears Local Complaints

CALGARY, May 30.—Large price spreads exist between identical models of automobiles in Alberta and Montana the tariff board learned Wednesday in a final Calgary session.

Continuing the automobile inquiry, which started at Vancouver, the board members were told that duties made prices of United States cars almost prohibitive in Alberta, and that Canadian automobile manufacturers were competing unfairly in the "parts" business with local jobbers.

FREIGHT, TAXES, HIGHER

J. L. Stewart, general manager of the Canadian automobile chamber of commerce, submitted reports showing that both taxes and freight rates were considerably higher in Alberta than in Montana. On one light model car the government tax in Butte, Montana, was $19. The tax on the same car in Calgary was $40.63. On an eight-cylinder model selling for $1,500 in Butte, the tax there was only $33.60 compared to $138.33 in Calgary.

A. L. Smith, K.C., representing a group of Alberta jobbers, asked the board to investigate fully a charge that manufacturers were importing parts from the United States duty free, ostensibly for manufacturing purposes and were then retailing the parts in competition with jobbers who had paid full duties.

DIFFERENCES SHOWN

W. H. Poole, of the Department of Economics at the University of Alberta, who prepared a comparative schedule, reported differences in prices as high as $310 on stock model cars sold at Shelby, Montana, and Lethbridge, Alta.

Trade Pact Deals Go Ahead In U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 30—State department officials privately expressed the opinion last night the United States supreme court's ruling overturning NRA would have no direct effect on the administration's reciprocal trade treaty program. Canadian-American discussions are continuing, they said.

Informed of published reports the NRA ruling might foreshadow a similar decision against the pacts now being drawn, officials declined formal comment, but privately declared negotiations with other countries would continue without interruption and with no doubt as to their validity.

Manitoba Farm Interest Is Cut

WINNIPEG, May 30.—Premier John Bracken announced Wednesday that interest on mortgages and agreements for sale held by the Manitoba Farm Loans Association will be reduced from six and seven per cent to five per cent.

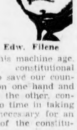
Free State Takes Steps Abolishing Governor-General

DUBLIN, May 30—Abolition of the office of governor-general was forecast Tuesday as the Dail voted expenses for that office. The vote on division was 44 to 23.

Eamon De Valera, president of the Free State, said the government had reduced the expense to the minimum necessary to leave the office standing. The next step would be to abolish it altogether. If the opposition would not assist in the process of abolition, the government might be forced to proceed alone, which would involve the removal of certain passages in the Irish Free State constitution, he said.

CONSTITUTION REVISION NEED SAYS FILENE

BOSTON, May 30.—The United States supreme's court's invalidation of the NRA was hailed last night by Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant-economist, as indicative of needed constitutional revision to meet the facts of "the machine age."



Edw. Filene

"Bad as the immediate economic consequences of this decision may be," said Filene, "I believe the supreme court has done the nation a great service in making it clear our constitution needs revision in accordance with the facts of this machine age.

"To perpetuate constitutional government, and to save our country from Fascism on one hand and economic chaos on the other, congress should lose no time in taking such steps as are necessary for an adequate revision of the constitution."

Fine Dance Revue At Wetaskiwin

WETASKIWIN, May 30.—Mrs. Cecelia Enman, mayoress of Wetaskiwin, presented her dance revue to a capacity house in the Audien theatre last night which contained a fine standard of Terpsichorean art. Miss Marian Enman showed talent, grace and beauty. Her interpretation of Chief White Dawn was particularly praiseworthy.

Little Sheila Moss an infant of five summers and six-year-old Margaret Smith were personifications of grace and charm, while Miss Arly Kadley gave an exhibition of supple beauty. The scenery lighting and costumes were splendid.

The whole presentation was an example of how a small community can stage an entertainment that would afford pleasure to any sophisticated audience.

HAUPTMANNS FIGHT REILLY MONEY CLAIM

Defence Lawyer's Effort For Receivership Falls Flat

TRENTON, N.J., May 30.—Action of Edward J. Reilly, Brooklyn attorney, to place Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defence fund in receivership, was dismissed Wednesday by vice-chancellor Malcolm G. Buchanan.

Reilly, former chief defence counsel for the man convicted of the Lindbergh baby slaying, sought to restrain C. Lloyd Fisher of the defence staff, and the Flemington National Bank and Trust Company, from making disbursements, to protect his own claim of $22,398 for services.

The vice-chancellor asserted that rather than Hauptmann being indebted to Reilly, the Brooklyn lawyer apparently owed the convicted man $5,000, allegedly obtained fraudulently.

"There are several affidavits to the effect the complainant by fraudulent and inequitable means, obtained some $5,000 for his past services and disbursements from Mrs. Hauptmann out of the funds received by her as contributions for the purpose of appeal, the vice-chancellor declared.

Bullets Cow Banana Loading Jamaica Crews

KINGSTON, Jamaica, May 30.—After a night of rioting that saw bullets flying about the city's west end, Kingston's fruit export trade was at a standstill again Wednesday with the use of the port barred to shippers.

They were forced to send banana cargoes for shipment to smaller ports on the island when laborers refused to work the boats following disorders marked by the shooting of a woman.

She was dropped, though not hurt seriously, by a police bullet as officers held off a crowd of stevedores that rioted in the west end. The disturbance was short-lived.

It was the fourth labor riot in Jamaica this month.

Creosote Worker Strike Is Ended

TRANSCONA, Man., May 30.—Sixty striking employees of the Canada Creosoting company will go back to work here today after signing a compromise agreement with the management.

The compromise was reached last night after negotiations sponsored by Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of labor for Manitoba.

The men were granted wage increases and improvements in working conditions but were denied the right to belong to a union affiliated with the Workers Unity League. The company also refused to recognize a shop committee.

THE END OF THE STRIKE

The city council went some way to meet the requests of the relief strikers in granting open food vouchers, good at any store, with twenty per cent of the allowance to be paid in cash.

A concession perhaps even more important is the decision to investigate the cost of foods, to find out whether the relief families are right in their claim that the allowance should be increased fifteen per cent to meet the higher cost of living.

It is unfortunate, and rather hard to understand, that such an investigation was not made long ago. But that it is to be made now was a gesture of conciliation which no doubt helped to bring the strike to an end.

The proposal to make some adjustment in regard to clothing, and to hold weekly Hearings of complaints from relief men, were further steps in that very desirable direction.

If the strikers have not gained all they hoped, they have at least gained something worth while, wtih a prospect of further betterments to come. The ending of the strike on this reasonable basis is a matter for congratulation to council, relief men and taxpayers.

START AT HOME

There will be, or should be, unanimous approval of the bill before parliament stipulating that the eight-hour day and the forty-four hour week are to apply on all federal public works. That is the rule already in private industry quite generally throughout the west at least. The Government of Canada should lead, rather than follow, private employers in cutting down the hours of labor and giving human beings at least that margin of profit from the economy of the machine.

The bill should also provide, if it does not, that wages paid on federal public works shall everywhere be equal to those paid on provincial public works, and equal to the minimum wage law of the province in which the work is situated—where such law has been or may be enacted. In the rate of pay, as in the length of the day, the Dominion should set the pace for local governments, municipalities and private employers.

The first place to apply this bill, including the pay schedule, is in the twenty-cent-a-day camps where single men have been constructing public works for a fraction of what the improvements are worth and should have cost. When parliament undertakes to lay down the law to other employers it should stop exploiting labor itself.

ANOTHER CRISIS ON

Premier Flandin wants France to take another dose of the gold cure, and is not at all sure it will do it. The Chamber listened coldly to his prescription on Tuesday and then adjourned to Thursday to think out whether the disease was worse than the cure.

The Premier is asking for sweeping powers of administration, with a view to applying economy of the "ruthless" brand in order to balance the budget and "save the franc" from devaluation. Since the budget is out of balance by $960,000,000, with the Bank of France trying to hoist the discount rate faster than gold flows to the United States, the need of the sweeping powers is obvious, whether or not that is the way to apply them.

Canadians, thinking back three years, will have no trouble in understanding what that brand of "economy" means. It means reduced wages, men thrown out of employment, tightened belts, slackening trade, lengthening relief lines, the abandonment of relief works and the distribution of doles; at least, that is what it has meant in Canada.

With 2,000,000 unemployed, it may be that France would stand another dose of the orthodox remedy for depression. But the prospect on Tuesday was that the Chamber would upset the Government rather than risk imposing a further instalment of deflation upon the exasperated public. The gold "standard," once supposed to be the emblem of economic security, has become a flag of distress.

EXTREMES MEET

Mayor McGeer of Vancouver rightly surmises there would be "No reason for international bankers to complain if revolution and chaos should set off the need for a military dictatorship" in Canada.

None whatever. That, in fact, would be a consummation they might devoutly wish for. Whether they know it or not, the professional agitators are playing right into the hands of the money-power, and helping to create the one condition that can rivet private control of money on the people of Canada for the future.

A military dictatorship under any other name would mean the same thing so far as money is concerned. There is in Montreal and in Toronto a very active movement for the establishment of a Union Government at Ottawa, and the mails are carrying streams of clever if unconvincing propaganda to all parts of the Dominion. Thus far there has been little response; save in the way of reminders that Canada once had a Union Government and does not want another.

But should conditions prevailing in Vancouver extend to other cities, with calls for martial law and the forcible preservation of law and order, the Union Government movement would be given a prompt and powerful stimulus. And what more could the private controllers of money want or ask for than a Union Government created by themselves, named by themselves, and depending upon them for support? There would be no monetary reform under that kind of a regime.

But barring such a "coup" monetary reform is plainly in sight whenever the electors are allowed to go to the polls and elect a new parliament. Whoever hopes for a change in our monetary system that will free us from the domination of private control, and make money the servant and not the master of men, must resolutely oppose any movement which could be construed as revolutionary, rebellious, or inciting to violence. That, more surely than anything else, could destroy the hopes of monetary reform within the next four years.

Poems That Live

ON HER DANCING

I stood and saw my Mistress dance,
Silent, and with so fixed an eye,
Some might suppose me in a trance:
But being asked why,
By one who knew I was in love,
I could not but impart
My wonder, to behold her move
So nimbly with a marble heart.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

There are several versions of "O Canada," but none that closely fits the facts.

The Quebec original is too theologic for close transcription to use in other portions of Canada.

J. S. Cowper

The English versions are too loosely phrased for literal acceptance. In ordinary parlance we think of people "standing on guard" as engaged in military defence. Obviously this is not the meaning in the minds of profiteers, sweatshop owners, money barons, protected monopolists, munition contractors and professional patriots when they gather to proclaim "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee."

To assist rhymsters with more time on their hands and more music in their minds than myself, I would like to outline some of the things that should be more clearly defined in any new version, yet to be written, of our melodious National Anthem.

We stand, of course, for handing over to private profiteers the control of the national currency and public credit to dole out or call in as they desire, without regard for the public welfare. There's no need to labor that point.

Arising out of the system of letting private profiteers use the public credit for their own uses, we have large numbers of unemployed in Canada. We stand for a system of herding these men away in celibate cantonments, paying them 20 cents a day pocket-money on the days they turn out to exercise, and getting no useful work from them. There's no need to labor that point, either.

What about those of us who still have salaried jobs and a little money to spend? What do we stand for?

Expressed in figures, we stand for paying 35 per cent more for nearly everything we use for singing "O Canada" than if we sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

This isn't hearsay or guess-work. It's a matter of cold calculation and in part, of sworn evidence given before the Dominion Tariff Board in its public hearings within the past couple of weeks.

I'll quote some of it.

Have you ever pondered, as I have been pondering of late, over the automobile ads in the magazines from across the border and those in the newspapers of our own country? Did you ever wish that you lived there so that for the price you propose to pay for a cheap car in Canada, you could buy a high-class car over there? I've been looking at the American prices—$510 for a Plymouth; $615 for a Pontiac; $695 for a De Soto; $795 for a Buick; $825 for a Nash; $580 for a La Fayette; $695 for a Hudson; $595 for a Graham; $645 for a Dodge—and so on. They make interesting comparisons with the prices charged for precisely the same cars assembled in factories on this side of the line.

According to evidence given before the Tariff Enquiry last week at Nelson, B.C., Canadians bought 117,000 cars in the year 1934. The lowest difference between the American and Canadian prices was $200. Allowing only $200 per car (the B.C. Economic Council says it should be $300 per car), that meant that Canadians paid more than $23,400,000 above U.S. prices in the year 1934 on automobiles alone. for the privilege of singing "O Canada."

The year 1934 was not a big year in the automobile industry. In 1929 Canadians bought 292,000 cars. That meant not less than $52,000,000 above world prices they paid for singing "O Canada."

These figures can stand a further paragraph.

In the year 1934 the total salary and wage bill for the entire automobile industry in Canada was less than $18,000,000—according to official sources. This less than $18,000,000 included salaries to executives, office staffs, promotion experts, etc., as well as to the men in the shops and assembly plants.

That means that the people of Canada donated to the Canadian automobile industry the whole of its wage and salary bill, and not less than $5,500,000 as a cash present in addition.

Put it in another way. If Canadians imported cars at world prices they could have afforded in 1934 to have pensioned off every workman, stenographer, clerk, draughtsman, etc., employed in the Canadian automobile industry at full wages, and still have been $5,500,000 better off.

The year 1934 was not a good or even an average year. If the comparison was made for the year 1929 when Canadians paid $52,000,000 above U.S. prices for their cars, and received for it a salary and wage payroll of $33,500,000, we could have afforded to pension off at full salary and wages every person employed in the Canadian automobile industry from high-priced presidents down to factory boys, and still have been $18,500,000 better off.

How nice it would be to start an industry in any other line as much in demand as automobiles under conditions where the government donated you your entire pay-roll and salary list and gave you in addition from $5,000,000 to $25,000,000 as a cash present.

Wouldn't you sing with heart and voice "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!"

I'd hoped to find space for a few figures about the gasoline business which has enjoyed very happy times in Alberta under the outgoing government, but it must wait.

The automobile manufacturers aren't the only beneficiaries. Nearly every big business in Canada parasites on the people in the same way.

It wouldn't be so bad if they'd treat us as Chinese or West Indian niggers instead of brother-Canadians. If a Chinese or a West Indian—or any other non-Canadian—wants a Canadian car, the Canadian manufacturer will sell it to him for 17 per cent less than to a Canadian dealer.

It's a great system, my brothers, to make the rich richer and the poor poorer.

When better alternative uses for their land and their energies open up and before Western farmers, they will switch from wheat-growing to these alternatives without being instructed to do so by Form J. Regulation 4567 issued by some white-collared youth in a departmental cubby-hole in Ottawa. But over large areas in Western Canada and to many thousands of farmers it is now—and will continue to be—wheat or nothing. We need national policies that will give these farmers a chance to grow wheat and survive.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Work Of Kidneys Vital

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

In the human body, certain organs are referred to as vital by reason of the fact that they are vital to life. Among these vital organs belong the kidneys. Even though one kidney may be removed and health be yours, nevertheless, if both kidneys are gone, life is impossible. It is undoubtedly true that to be on the safe side, nature has provided you with more kidney tissue than you need in ordinary living. In fact, it is estimated that if only one-third of the kidney tissue remains healthy you can get along without the other two-thirds and be none the worse. But this one-third is absolutely necessary.

Dr. F. McCoy

Once in a while a person is born with only one kidney and may enjoy normal health in spite of it; occasionally one kidney may be removed surgically because of damage and the patient returned to good health, however, as a general rule we start life provided with two kidneys.

The kidneys are bean shaped, are placed toward the back with the right kidney lower than the left, possess a rich blood supply, and are capable of throwing out between one quart and a quart and a half of liquid in 24 hours.

The purpose of the kidneys is to remove certain waste products from the blood which occur as the end-products left over after protein is burned in the body and consist chiefly of uric acid, urea and creatinin. If the kidneys are doing their work, these waste materials are removed promptly and efficiently no matter how large an amount of protein, such as meat, is eaten.

The waste substances are flushed out of the body in a liquid medium. Because of the fact that the kidneys remove waste material directly from the blood stream, they serve as blood purifiers. The intelligence shown by the kidneys in knowing what materials to throw away and what substances to keep, has never been satisfactorily explained. The healthy kidney leaves the blood proteins alone, together with other nutrient material and normal liquid waste from the kidney therefore contains no nourishing substances. It is just as though the kidneys say to the grocery boys in the blood stream, "Keep Moving," while they say to the garbage collectors, "Out you go."

Another of the important duties of the kidney is to control the amount of water in the blood eliminating the excess. Through this control, the composition of the blood remains the same, no matter how much water is taken into the body. This explains why it is that the blood is not diluted even though you drink two or three extra quarts of water. If a greater amount of water is being thrown out, then the waste materials will be diluted to a greater extent. However, the kidneys also work on the reverse plan and if you drink little water and lose a great deal through the skin by sweating, the kidneys will hoard what water is in the body and excrete very little, in which case, the liquid waste will be highly concentrated.

When the liquid waste eliminated by the kidneys is tested through urinalysis it will fall within normal classifications. The actual secretion is carried on by very small tubes or tubules, and it has been estimated that there are one million tubes in each kidney. In addition to the constant secretion, the kidneys are also excretory organs, the waste material being collected in special tubes called collecting tubules and conducted outward.

One of the simple, familiar and inexpensive tests which I recommend be made at least once a year in the urinalysis. Through the report gained in this way, much may be suggested about the kidneys. If the report indicates the need for further study, your doctor will advise a test of the kidney function which will show how the kidneys are doing their work.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fast Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of health in plain, easily understandable language.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

On May 31 it will be good judgement not to try to persuade anyone to do something against their will, as it is apt to turn out unsatisfactory, if you do. It will be poor policy to be "bossy" in either home or office, as it will arouse a feeling of antagonism, with unpleasant results.

Married and engaged couples, as well as those ready to obligate themselves to take the marriage vows, will do well to remember walls sometimes have ears, so be careful what you say of a confidential nature, which you do not wish to have overheard.

If a woman and May 31 is your birthday, nature probably has endowed you with a great deal of grace, which if properly used can possibly be successfully commercialized. You may always create a better impression by acting perfectly naturally, than by assuming mannerisms or appearing affected. A man's love will probably have a decided beneficial influence over your affairs, terminating in much happiness.

The child born on May 31 usually, when it reaches its teens, displays a degree of agility that attracts attention. It should have plenty of self-possession, sa well as an abundance of natural wit.

If a man and May 31 is your natal day, you probably have a great love for anything bordering on the dramatic. You should have excellent oratorical ability, as well as a magnetic personality.

Side Glances —By George Clark

"Mama, he took away the bite I was saving till last!"

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1873 Samuel Holland, the surveyor general, was in Montreal on his way from Quebec to "the Upper Country" to make the first official surveys of the land then unknown save to the Indians, a few French traders and some pioneer Loyalists. His instructions were to survey "from the last concessions to Cataraqui and thence to Niagara, on the north shore of Lake Ontario. It took the party the best part of a month to reach Cataraqui (now Kingston) and work was begun. Holland soon reported the country "fit for all purposes of agriculture." Holland returned to Quebec in midsummer, but deputed John Collins, after whom Collins Bay is named, "to mark out the settlements intended for the refugee Loyalists."

Before 1783 had ended Collins had outlined townships thus: 1, Kingston; 2, Ernestown; 3, Fredericksburg; and 4, Adolphustown. These were subdivided the following year. The result was that on August 21, 1784, Holland was able to write that over 3,500 square miles have been settled "in a climate preferable to any part of New England" but a country also in "which insects are in great multitudes" . . . Practically all the surveys in Upper Canada between 1784 and 1792 were along the St. Lawrence and Niagara rivers and the shore of Lake Ontario, only the front concessions being laid out.

Although Holland himself did not live in Upper Canada his name is remembered by the Holland river and Holland Landing, neither of which he ever saw. It is worth while noting that in the records concerning the early surveys the spelling varied; sometimes it was Kente, other times Quinte; sometimes Cataraqui, other times Kataraqui. It would be interesting to note how this double spelling runs through all the early history of Canada, as, for instance, Quebec and Kebec, and in some places also in New York.

"The National Emergency"

"Wherever the discussion of relief and unemployment begins," it says, "it always comes back to the same point—the doorstep of the Ottawa Government. Unemployment is a national matter. It is on a national scale. It is due to national or international causes. It is accentuated in certain localities—Vancouver perhaps the chief of them—by the fact that unemployed can move freely from city to city and from province to province. It can only be attacked effectively on a national basis. It can only be remedied by national means. Anything the cities or the provinces can do is merely palliative and has to be done over again.

"In principle, the Federal Government has recognized its responsibility for unemployment in its unemployment insurance legislation. But in practice, it says to the provinces, 'The job is yours. We will help provide salve for the wounds, but we will not seek a radical cure. Leave things alone; they will remedy themselves.' Asked for a works program so that the country may get some return for the money it is expending, so that men may get jobs instead of subsistence, Sir George Perley, acting Prime Minister, has nothing more hopeful to offer than the assistance of the Mounted Police. Meanwhile, just across the international border, President Roosevelt launches his $4,800,000,000 program of work, designed to give jobs to 3,500,000 people, and tells his fellow-citizens the program is his crusade 'to end enforced idleness, the destroyer of the human spirit.'

"In Vancouver, which is very far from Ottawa, and, apparently, quite beyond the vision of a complacent and dying Government, the unemployment situation has reached a crisis. Vancouver is, in a measure, in the hands of an army of occupation. Some hundreds of men in rebellion against the Dominion Government's relief camp system are in the city, and, if the citizens would let them, would hold the city up to ransom, and would bring other strikers from other cities and provinces to share in the spoil."

"And while we are giving advice to long-suffering camp men who know from experience the destruction of the human spirit which enforced idleness brings, we should like, if it is not presumptuous, to despatch a little to that Government on Parliament Hill which awaits its end with such dignity and fortitude. It is a government which has great hopes and great plans for Canada. It has a fine program of social security. It has ambitions for Canada. It would banish unemployment and despair. It would outlaw busness abuses. It would make the Dominion happy and prosperous and secure—in the future. But while it dreams of the future, it forgets that there is a fire burning now that must be extinguished or there will be no future of the sort it dreams about.

"There is an unemployment emergency—now.

"There is an unemployment crisis—now.

"And it demands a remedy—now. It can only come through an honest and effective attempt to apply the waiting labor to the millions of dollars of work that is crying out to be done."—Vancouver Province (Independent Conservative).

LONG MEMORIES

Editor Bulletin: Please allow me a little space in your most valuable paper. I am only a common farmer and during the winter try to make a little extra hauling coal from the mines. Therefore I am not a good journalist, but according to the U.F.A. broadcast speakers one would think that we are not even supposed to know anything. I, and a great many more in this district, was very much surprised to think that Mr. Brownlee thought the farmers were so dumb that they could not see through him when he said that under Social Credit they would have to pay their taxes and also be taxed for him as he had nothing to sell therefore would not be taxed.

I wonder if he thinks the farmer does not already know that he is now paying his taxes for him; and he certainly does not think that the farmers have forgotten that they also paid for the joy rides of the selected M.L.A.'s. But isn't it wonderful how they think of the poor farmer about election time? They sure point out to him then just how the other party is going to sting him—but they refrain from telling us what they have done in the past 14 years; and again they seem to forget that there are others in the province, beside farmers, that expect to live. Have they already forgotten the rotten dirty deal they allowed to be pulled off in the mining district of Halkirk last fall? If so, I am sure the other mining districts in the province will not forget at election time.

Then again they say Social Credit can't be done, but I understand when the Halkirk coal operators interviewed the government officials and the opposition leaders they told them that the government in power could do or take anything without compensation.

So surely Social Credit can't be any more than that; and yet they can't see how it can be done "when they say the government has power to do anything."

Well, do the same as they did when they went to school. Let Mr. Aberhart show them how and you can depend on Mr. Aberhart allowing all to live and not only the selected few.

Hon. H. H. Stevens Is The Real Conservative Leader

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The comedy now being played at Ottawa, in which the Prime Minister declares himself to be trying out his strength over a three weeks' test, will not deceive anybody. The real effort is to develop a new leader who can supplant Hon. H. H. Stevens in the confidence and esteem of the Conservative party. This cannot be done.

When there was no question about the health of the Prime Minister his famous radio speeches about the New Deal for Canada fell flat with even the Conservatives; and left Hon. H. H. Stevens stronger than ever with the Conservatives.

The reason was and is that Hon. H. H. Stevens is saying what he really believes; while the Prime Minister is saying what he thinks the changes in trend of political thought have forced upon the Conservative party.

No holder of office in the Ottawa cabinet today—including the Prime Minister himself—can hope to hold the Conservatives together on a policy adopted from enforced expediency. There must be belief before utterance; and utterance based upon belief. Hon. H. H. Stevens has this belief; had it and announced it at risk of his position and his future. There is no one in a position to compete with him for the Conservative leadership except on the basis of annihiliation of the Conservative party.

Under the leadership of any man selected to keep Hon. H. H. Stevens out, the Conservative party will go down to destruction as a political force. Under the leadership of Hon. H. H. Stevens the Conservative party can hold hope to come through the general election with a strength sufficient to form an efficient opposition. There is no possibility of retaining power; all the Conservatives know this and cannot be held by arguments based on expediency.

Nothing but sincerity can hold enough Conservatives to vote in a cause which is lost so far as the present general election is concerned; but which has possibilities of public service in the future, so as to marshal an efficient opposition in the next parliament.

Hon. H. H. Stevens has this sincerity; has proved it under circumstances of exceptional personal difficulty; and any attempt to supplant him by a leadership of political expediency will lead the Conservative party into irretrievable disaster.

TORIES TO HAVE SIX NOMINEES FOR EDMONTON

Conservatives will nominate six candidates to contest the Edmonton provincial constituency at the coming election, it was disclosed in the highest party circles on Wednesday.

A special meeting of the central executive Wednesday evening set the date of the nominating convention for Thursday, June 6. It is known that the leader of the party, D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., favors running a full slate and that recommendation will be made to the central executive.

With the Conservatives nominating six there is the possibility of over 30 names figuring on the ballot. Already the Liberal and Labor parties have nominated six candidates each. Social credit adherents state the party will have the full quota of six in the field, while the Independent Labor party have nominated two, the Communists U.F.A. group will seek to have Hon. one. It is also certain that the J. F. Lymburn re-elected. This brings the possible starters up to 28. Rumor has it that there will be several independent candidates in the field also.

Central Bank Issues

OTTAWA, May 30.—Issue of Bank of Canada notes last April 30 amounted to $43,568,688 printed in English and $8,690,005 printed in French, the House of Commons was told Wednesday in answer to a question by J. F. Pouliot (Lib., Temiscouata).

A rattlesnake 61 inches long, four inches in diameter, weighing nearly 20 pounds and having 10 rattles and a button was killed near Kirbyville, Tex., recently.

Mayor Opposed To Scenic Driveway

Following an inspection made at noon Wednesday of the proposed west entrance to the Jasper East scenic driveway, Mayor J. A. Clarke stated he was still opposed to the drive's route because of the steep embankment and the dangers which would face motorists when they left Jasper avenue and took the sharp turn southeast to drive down the valley road.

"Already the beauties of the river bank have been spoiled by the cutting down of trees which were planted. This was done to provide the west entrance to the drive. But my major objection to the route is the danger it will mean for motorists driving during the night," Mayor Clarke said.

Doukhobors Serve Jail Sentences

NELSON, B.C., May 30.—All but three of eight Sons of Freedom Doukhobors tried ex parte on a charge of failing to send their children to school and sentenced to five and 10-day terms, have been arrested and have served their terms. Their case was tried by stipendiary magistrate John Cartmel in their absence when they failed to answer summons.

Those who have served the term are Pete Maloff, Fred Maloff, Alex Larien, Moses Antifaeff and Mrs. Marcia Bulinoff. Three are still unlocated by provincial officers.

Graveyard Ghost Merely Tombstone

AIRDRIE, Alta., May 30.—The "ghost" of Airdrie cemetery has turned out to be a tombstone. Motorists noticed strange, eerie lights in the cemetery as they passed. Headlights of their automobiles, striking a tombstone at a certain angle, produced the spooky effect, investigation revealed.

CORDELL HULL APPRECIATES FRIENDSHIP

Co-operation of Powers is Great World Peace Factor

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Anglo-American co-operation was viewed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull last night as a great and beneficial force in promoting and preserving world peace.

In a formal statement commenting on recent friendly remarks by British leaders, Hull said the United States and Great Britain consistently have advocated constructive peace conferences and foresaw "that there will be in time to come many opportunities for similar helpful and constructive collaboration."

"My attention has been called," Hull's statement said, "to my very friendly references to the United States in recent speechs made by Mr. Stanley Baldwin and Captain Anthony Eden. It is heartening to note such expressions which I am happy to reciprocate in full.

"While we have not in every instance viewed problems eye-to-eye, yet our common outlook and the many traditions we share have enabled us to work together in appreciation of the importance of a constructive policy favoring the promotion and preservation of peace."

The DARK BLOND

By Carleton Kendrake

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILLICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE DRIMGOLD, finds her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPP, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunet, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Happ's son, NORMAN; his stepson, ROBT. CAISE; MRS. HAPP; and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Happ's maid.

That night a note under her door informs Millicent, "The woman in black ermine is here." Millicent sees the woman, tries to follow, but loses her. Millicent goes to the chauffeur's quarters. The chauffeur is dead from a bullet wound.

Next morning SERGT. MAHONEY takes charge of the case.

Over the telephone Mrs. Happ learns that her husband has been kidnapped. She is warned not to inform the police.

Millicent tells Norman all she knows of what has happened. They locate the store where the whisky found in the chauffeur's room was sold, learn the purchaser was a woman in a black fur coat. Norman traces the license number of the car Millicent saw the woman in ermine driving.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

MILLICENT, despite her excitement, remembered to check Norman Happ's impulsiveness with a warning. "Don't call the name out loud," she said.

Norman Happ, covering the distance which separated him from the car, laughed reassuringly.

"Don't worry," he said. "I'm not entirely a fool."

"Oh, I didn't mean that."

"No offense," he told her, laughing good-naturedly. "I know you didn't. I just wanted you to see what precautions I took."

He unfolded a piece of paper on which he had scribbled; "Phyllis Faulconer, 3829 Baronne avenue."

Millicent's face showed her disappointment, as she read the memorandum. "Oh," she said, "I thought it would be . . ."

"Thought it would be Vera Duchene?" he asked, as her voice faded into disappointed silence.

She nodded.

"I don't know anything about detective business," he said, "but I understand detectives have to be careful not to jump at conclusions and then try to make the facts fit the conclusions. A good detective is one who goes ahead and gets the facts regardless of what they may be, and then draws conclusions from the facts."

"That may be the way a good detective does it, but it stands to reason it must have been Vera Duchene who was mixed up in this thing from the beginning."

"Not necessarily."

"Certainly," she told him, "it couldn't be this Phyllis Faulconer. Why, none of us even know her."

"And none of us," he pointed out, "know the woman in the black ermine."

He hesitated for a moment, staring at her speculatively.

"Is something the matter?" Millicent asked anxiously, becoming uneasy under his steady appraisal.

"They want you at the house."

"Want me?"

"Yes."

"How do you know?"

"I telephoned."

"Oh, that's why you took so long."

"Yes."

"Whom did you talk with?"

"Sergeant Mahoney."

"Oh," she exclaimed, feeling suddenly cold with dread. "What does he want?"

"I don't know. He wouldn't tell me over the telephone. He said you had given him your word of honor you wouldn't skip out while he was carrying on his investigations."

"I didn't give him my word of honor," she blazed indignantly, "and what's more, I'm not skipping out."

"That's what I told him."

"You told him I was with you?"

"Yes."

"Thank heavens for that! I would not have him think I was running away for anything. What does he want of me?"

"He didn't say."

"Well, if he wants me for some more questioning he can just wait until I get ready to show up. I'm sick and tired of being cooped up in that house and having people run in with all sorts of questions every time there's a new development in the case."

He nodded agreement and said, suddenly, "I know how you feel, Millicent."

Molified by his quick sympathy, and having relieved her feelings by her burst of indignation, she said "How about your father, Norman? Have they found out anything?"

"I don't know. That's what worries me. Sergeant Mahoney wouldn't discuss it over the telephone, but he did say the reason he wanted to see you was in connection with my father's disappearance."

She stared at him with wide, incredulous eyes. "Good heavens, they're not going to try to blame that on me, too!"

"No. I don't think so. Sergeant Mahoney wouldn't say just what he wanted. His manner was very peculiar, but he said he wanted to see you as soon as you could get there; that it related to my father's disappearance."

"Then," she told him, "we will go back at once. If there's anything I can do to help clear that up I want to do it."

"It's all rather strange and complicated. What could you possibly know that would help Sergeant Mahoney in connection with that case?"

"Nothing. He'll find it out after he's asked me a few questions."

"Then we'll go and see Phyllis Faulconer first," Norman said. "I told Sergeant Mahoney we'd return but I didn't say just how soon that would be. If I thought I could help Father I'd do anything, but Sergean Mohaney is following a false lead and I've a hunch we're helping Father more by running down this woman in the black ermine coat than we would be by running around at Sergeant Mahoney's beck and call.

"That isn't all. I have an idea Sergeant Mahoney suspects the truth about you—about the Drimgold murder, I mean. Once you get back I doubt that he will let you out of his sight again. And unless we clear up the mystery of Harry Felding's murder I don't think it's going to be cleared up."

"You mean they'll keep on suspecting me?" she asked.

He changed the subject abruptly, saying, "Let's quit wondering about these side issues and concentrate on the matter in hand. It isn't very far to Baronne avenue. We can make it in less than 10 minutes."

He drove with a set, tight-lipped concentration which convinced Millicent more than any words would have done that they were working against time—that Norman Happ knew this and that there had been more to the message he had received from Sergeant Mahoney than he was willing to disclose.

The address on Baronne avenue turned out to be an apartment house. Millicent felt a strange thrill as the car sped across the intersection and swung in toward the right-hand curb.

"This is the place," Norman said. "It won't be long now until we know something about this woman in the black ermine coat."

He jerked back the door catch, flung the door open. "Come on," he said. "Slide across. We haven't time to stand on formality."

With a low, nervous laugh she slid her feet along the seat, wormed under the steering wheel, and felt his hands under her elbows as he lifted her from the car. He slammed the door shut and, together, they ascended the three steps which led to the foyer where the names of the tenants were displayed in a long row opposite call buttons.

"Here we are," he said triumphantly. "Phyllis Faulconer, 309."

Before she could stop him he had jabbed the button opposite the card.

"Oh!" she cried in dismay, "you shouldn't have done that, Norman."

"Why not?"

"Because. We don't want her to know we're investigating her. We should make inquiries and find out what she looks like."

"We'll know what she looks like," Norman Happ said grimly, "when we've had a look at her."

He jabbed the button a second time, impatiently, as he spoke.

"But suppose it should turn out to be the woman in the black ermine coat and suppose she should be a stranger to us?"

"We'll grab her anyway," he said. "We have enough on that woman to justify calling in the police."

He rang the bell for the third time.

There was no answer.

"Not at home," Norman said, disappointment showing in his voice. He tried the door of the apartment house, then turned away from it.

"Locked," he told Millicent. "You can't get in unless the occupant of one of the apartments presses an electric buzzer and releases the door."

"Then, if this Faulconer woman isn't in, we can't even get into the building. We can't . . ."

Once more he laughed and said, "I'll show you a trick. Start pressing buttons opposite the names of people who have apartments on the fifth floor."

"Why?"

"Because," he said, peering at the directory, "someone will be expecting a friend, or will just buzz the door open on general principles. Someone on the first or second floors might come to the elevator to look us over. We can't use the third floor because we're getting off there. The fifth floor is the best one to work on."

He found a name and pressed a button. She noticed the figure 506 opposite another name and flanked by a button. She pressed this button.

After a moment a buzz came from the door, and Norman Happ triumphantly pushed it open.

"Come on, young lady," he told her. "We're going to do some detective work."

They ascended in the elevator to the third floor. Norman led the way to apartment 309. He pounded on the panels of the door. There was no response.

He took some keys from his pocket. "Some of these are passkeys. Let's hope one of them will work."

"You're not going in!"

He nodded.

Suddenly she heard the door of the elevator slide back on its rollers. Someone was getting off at the third floor. She raised her eyes, stared down the corridor and then, with a sudden glance of dismay, grasped Norman's hand and jerked the key out of the lock provides for a regimentation of industry and commerce through price-fixing, and an interference in and domination of business to an extent never attempted in recent times in any British country. The plan is revolutionary in the sense that it abandons the business system based on competition with recognition of the laws of supply and demand, which is in operation in all but Communist and Fascist countries. History is filled with unsuccessful attempts by despotic monarchs and unwise communities to fix prices, but never with success, and sometimes with disaster.

As W. M. Davidson Sees Aberhart's Social Credit

It is necessary to consider a few phases of the Aberhart plan.

1.—The Government will fix the price of everything coming into the province. I shall not consider at this time whether the province has such powers. The merchant will have no say in the buying price or selling price of his own goods. The merchandising will largely be taken out of the hands of the merchant and placed in the hands of the Government experts, the merchant being permitted to wait on the customers and meet the monthly or annual losses. If the merchant objects, off will go his head, his license will be cancelled and if necessary the Government will take over the stores entirely, according to a warning given in one of Mr. Aberhart's written statements.

2.—Everything sold for export or for consumption in the province must go through the hands of the Government to be priced. If a farmer has a carload of wheat, or a band of horses, or the housewife a bunch of turkeys, all must be appraised by the Government before being sold.

3.—The Government, it follows logically from the fundamental basis of the plan so far made public, will fix all wages for all artisans, skilled and unskilled, printers, coal miners, typists and house maids, editors, authors and artists. I know something about negotiating wage scales for printers. It involves a very detailed knowledge of the printing business, the conditions of business, the cost of living, and more than anything else good relations between employer and employee, and give and take on both sides.

Under the Aberhart plan, the Government steps in and neither employer or employee has any say in the final arrangements. The school board will get the mandate for the teachers' schedule and the congregation will receive instructions about the salary of the preacher.

Some may think this picture an exaggeration, because no sensible government would attempt these impossible tasks. It is not exaggeration.

Here is another fundamental feature of the plan which makes the whole thing utterly confusing and dangerous. The prices are to be just, as the Government interprets that word, but will not necessarily be uniform. The basis of valuation includes such factors as machine labor, human labor and that unknown and undetermined and undeterminable item called "unearned increment," and other features as well, which completely revolutionize the scale of prices. Wheat, grading No. 1, produced by one farmer, because of certain factors in his production or the organization of his farm, or the mysterious "unearned increment," may be marked down for a "Just Price" at less than that of a near-by farmer grading at No. 3. Superior cattle fitted in the most economical manner might sell for less than poor cattle because the latter were fitted less economically. There will not be uniform prices in respect to time, place or shop.

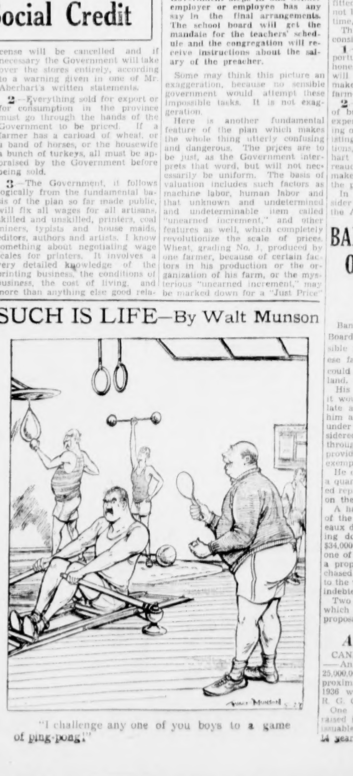
This leads to two very obvious considerations.

1.—It will lead to the widest opportunity for favoritism and dishonesty. The Government valuator will be supreme, with power to make or break any merchant or farmer in the province.

2.—It will make the transaction of business not only difficult and expensive but impossible. The fixing of prices at any time under existing rules, with uniform conditions, is difficult. Under the Aberhart plan, it would lead to a bureaucratic interference which would make industry and commerce in the province actually impossible.

In the next article, I shall consider the effect of the plan upon the Alberta producers.

SUCH IS LIFE—By Walt Munson



"I challenge any one of you boys to a game of ping-pong!"

BANKRUPTCY IS ONLY WAY OUT FOR OPAL FARM

Bankruptcy was advocated by the Board of Review as the only possible means under which a Japanese farmer from the Opal district could re-establish himself on the land.

His affairs were so involved that it would not be possible to formulate a proposal which would give him a fighting chance to get from under his load of debt. It was considered advisable he should go through the form of bankruptcy provided under the act, claim his exemptions and seek a fresh start.

He owed approximately $4,800 on a quarter section of land and offered repayment over a period of years on the basis of 70 per cent wheat.

A halt was called in the hearing of the application from a Lamoureaux district farmer seeking a scaling down of debts approximately $34,000 to enable the debtor and one of the chief creditors to discuss a proposal under which land purchased at $67 an acre would revert to the vendor for a quit claim of the indebtedness.

Two other cases were heard on which the board will formulate proposals.

Australian Loan

CANBERRA, Australia, May 30.—An internal loan program of 25,000,000 Australian pounds (approximately $96,000,000) for 1935 and 1936 was announced yesterday by R. G. Casey, assistant treasurer.

One half of the amount will be raised immediately at 3⅜ per cent, issuable at 99½ and redeemable in 14 years.

Women Editors Would Delete Lists Naming "Among Those Present"

OTTAWA, May 30.—Proceedings of the seventh triennial convention of the Canadian Women's Press Club were enlivened today by vigorous discussions on proposals to amend the constitution. Some of the amendments relating to administration were accepted, others rejected. Among those which fell by the wayside was one from Calgary which, if adopted, would have restricted membership only to bona fide newspaperwomen, eliminating writers of books, artists and poets.

Miss Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., of Ottawa, directed attention to the fact that if this position had been insisted on from the start, seven of the club's 12 national presidents would have been ineligible for membership.

Addresses on women's departments were delivered by Miss Elizabeth Long, Miss Katie Broad, Miss margaret Steven and Miss Emilie Boswell, with discussions led by Miss Jean Alexander. Some delegates were wholeheartedly in favor of deleting from the social columns the long lists of names which record "among those present" at social functions. These were always troublesome, it was explained. Invariably irate socialites on the inclusion of whose name there had been a slip-up would pester the society editors with telephone calls and make things generally uncomfortable. Since the function of newspapers was to give news, a large number of the delegates favored elimination of this disturbing feature.

The convention heard J. F. B. Livesay, general manager of the Canadian Press, in a brief address on co-operative news gathering.

They were entertained to luncheon by P. D. Ross, proprietor of the Ottawa Journal.

Baptists To Convene Here Next Month

Women will have a special part in the program arranged for the annual Alberta Baptist convention to be held in First Baptist church on Monday and Tuesday, June 10 and 11, when special problems concerning women's work in the rural districts and in the cities will be discussed by speakers in touch with these phases. The women's convention will be held on June 11, and will be attended by delegates from all over the province. Rev. L. E. Wilton, who returned from India a fortnight ago, and Mrs. Wilton, will be quest speakers.

At the morning sessions, business discussion will take place and annual reports will be heard, from officers of the board, executive members and committee conveners. In the afternoon the devotional service will be conducted by Mrs. Thomas Bellamy. Mrs. E. J. Hill will give the report of the Western Baptist publication, of which she is women's editor, and Mrs. J. C. Bowen will present the report of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board. Mrs. H. D. Snell of Red Deer will lead the discussion on how to solve rural mission circle problems, when Mrs. Sanders of High River, Mrs. E. Walz of Lavoy, and Mrs. H. Snell of Red Deer will speak. The same question pertaining to cities will be discussed by Mrs. E. J. Church of Medicine Hat, Mrs. W. C. Smalley of Edmonton, and Mrs. C. D. Ashdown, Calgary.

In the evening, Rev. Mr. Wilton will address the meeting, the Shiloh Baptist quartet will sing and a pageant will be presented by the boys in First Baptist Mission Band.

McCAULEY

Mrs. Speer is in charge of arrangements for a dance at which members of McCauley Community League will be guests on Friday evening. Most successful was the recent whist drive held by the league, when 14 tables were at play. Supper was served and pupils of Miss Doris Jordan entertained. Dancing concluded a most delightful evening.

TRACK MEET OF C. G. I. T. ON SATURDAY

Because of weather conditions the annual C.G.I.T. track meet was postponed from Saturday, May 18 and will be held on Saturday afternoon, June 1, at 2 o'clock. A splendid program of events has been planned; points will be awarded for attendance, songs and yells. Voting will take place for the Girls' Council Executive for 1935-36, at the beginning of the afternoon, so everyone is requested to be punctual.

Why Posy Prints Are Wallflowers

Debutantes at the summer party, gay in posy prints, take cover when our siren in this tucked and shirred black net over black silk taffeta arrives. Withal, the summer frocks, gay as the gardens in blossom, cannot compete with the mystery of midnight, suggested by this exquisite and distinctive gown. A long flowing cape of net is tucked at the shoulders, and if you want a touch of color there is a taffeta bow on the left shoulder, and a petit point bag such as the one pictured. A Jolles from Vienna will also give it.

THE price of gardenias in Hong Kong will be the envy of hostesses who wish for a novel manner of flower arrangements. Three dozen of them that can be arranged like water lilies in a low, flat bowl make a gorgeous centrepiece, and the cost is only 40 cents. It does break one's heart to think of gardenias squandered lavishly in bowls about the rooms . . . especially when one gardenia about once a year is the average individual limit in the north. We wonder if dandelions are rare blossoms in China.

Daisy's song
The sun, with his great eye,
Sees not so much as I;
And the moon, all silver, proud,
Might as well be in a cloud.

And O, the spring—the spring!
I lead the life of a king!
Couched in the teeming grass,
I spy each pretty lass.

I look where no one dares,
And I stare where no one stares,
And when the night is nigh,
Lambs bleat my lullaby.

APPEALS ARE STILL HEARD AT MISSION

Spring has revealed many tales of hardship locked with suffering in winter's fastness, and appeals for assistance now are received daily by Mr. and Mrs. Edwardson at Hope Mission.

And is it not a happy suggestion, now in the midst of housecleaning turmoil so much that is to be disposed of could be used to su . good advantage by the Mission.

The scope for assistance is realized from these excerpts from letters received daily at Hope Mission:

"I am short of bed clothes."

"I hope you can spare me a few baby clothes."

"Could you please do me a favor for my orphans by sending some clothes for a girl 15 years old; one eight years, one seven years, and a boy of six years. We are very hard up, and my neighbors told me to write you folks about my troubles. The girls all need dresses and shoes."

Doctor Advises Dental Attention For Youngsters

In telling of the importance of care for "Six Year Molars" a physician says: "I should like to advise you to cultivate the habit of taking your child to the dentist at least once every six months, whether the child has toothache or not. Begin these visits to the dentist when the baby is two and a half years old, at which time all the temporary teeth are in place."

The dentist plays an important part in the conservation of health and should be consulted regularly.

Curried Dishes Are Favorite At Home

By MARY E. DAGUE

American housewives like curried dishes in restaurants, but evidently suppose them to be too complicated for home manufacture. Really, though, curry is easy to use and a fine change once in awhile for the family. A grand way to use up left-overs, too, and make them look partified at the same time.

Sister Mary

Curry sauce was designed originally to make the East Indians' inevitable bowl of rice more palatable and to stimulate lagging appetites during hot weather. Paradoxical as it may sound, the highly seasoned sauce does tempt the appetite and is a good addition to summer menus. Indeed, the manager of a fine tea-room in New York tells me that curry is one of the most popular dishes she serves on sultry days.

Curries look nice, because you put the rice on a hot serving dish to form a border and the vegetables, meat or whatever in the centre.

Here's your basic curry rule, modified to please western palates:

CURRY SAUCE

One scant tablespoon curry powder, one tablespoon flour two tablespoons butter, two cups tomato juice or meat broth, one onion, one tablespoon chutney sauce, one and one-half tablespoons lemon juice, one teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Melt butter and stir in curry powder and flour. Cook and stir until frothy. Slowly add tomato juice or meat broth, stirring constantly. When smooth add minced onion, chutney, lemon juice, sugar, salt and pepper. Simmer for thirty minutes. If chutney sauce is not available, chopped cucumber rings or minced sweet pickle can be used. If you like you can add one tablespoon claret or port to the sauce when ready to add the meat.

Almost any kind of left-over meat can be reheated in a border of well cooked rice. Or cheap cuts of meat can be cut in dice and browned quickly in hot fat. Then simmer them in the sauce on top of the stove or in the oven, casserole fashion, until tender. A cheap cut of lamb is delicious cooked this way.

If you are entirely unfamiliar with the taste of curry it may help you in judging the amount to use if you know that curry powder is a combination of several condiments, including coriander seeds, tumeric and fenugreek seeds as well as other spices. It naturally varies in strength and flavor and firiness according to its composition, so it's a good idea to use it sparingly at first.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed rhubarb, cereal, cream, baked French toast, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Brown onion soup, radishes, strawberry and pineapple salad, popovers, milk, tea.

Can Husband Keep Wife From Folly Of Divorce?

DEAR MISS DIX.—My marriage of 25 years has come to an end. My wife and I are close to the 45-year mark, but she says that she is a young woman and that there are plenty of thrills in life left for her. She says that she never got to go with anybody else but me as a girl and couldn't do the things she wanted to do, so now she is tired of marriage, our home must be broken up, and she has sued for divorce. And when I try to talk and reason with her she goes into tears and threatens suicide. She says that there is no other man and that she does not want to marry again. I am all broken up over the affair and sick from worry. How can I make her see that I am the best friend she will ever have? Will she be happy in the course she is pursuing?

AN UNHAPPY HUSBAND.

Dorothy Dix

Answer:

Your wife is a pathological case and should be under the care of some good doctor. She needs to be saved from herself and prevented from committing the criminal folly of breaking up her home and divorcing a good husband.

The latter forties seem to be the age of indiscretion for both men and women, for it is then that they most often commit the idiocies that they spend the remainder of their lives in repenting. It is a common thing to see men and women live upright, useful, virtuous lives, apparently happy in their domestic relationship and contentedly treading the straight and narrow way, until they reach middle age, then suddenly run amuck. Smash all that they have built up into smithereens. Kick over the traces and bolt into forbidden pastures. Grandpas turn into playboys and girl-chasers. Sedate grandmas paint themselves up like flappers and hire gigolos. People who have celebrated their silver wedding anniversaries get divorces.

It is Nature's last call to the dining car. It is the realization men and women have that youth is almost gone, that their good looks are fading, that soon they must sober down into the drabness of age, and so they feel that they must have one last bite of romance. And because it is easy to believe what we want to believe, they delude themselves into thinking that they are still young and attractive to the opposite sex and that their pulses could still leap and thrill as when they were sweet and 20.

But they are mistaken, as they find out when they get their divorces and try to go back to their boyhood and girlhood. Age has taken its toll of them. The joints that age has stiffened cannot dance down the primrose path. The things that amuse youth bore maturity, and in a little while the little flicker of synthetic youth dies down and leaves a tired and disillusioned man or woman bitterly regretting the old home and the old companion he or she has left.

It is bad enough for the man who thinks that he can regain his lost youth by divorcing his old wife and marrying some girl young enough to be his daughter, but it is far worse for the middle-aged woman who deludes herself into believing that she can go back and gather up all her girlish dreams again and have the romantic experiences of 16 at 46.

It cannot be done. What is past, is past. No miracle is going to happen that will give her back a girl's heart any more than it will give her back her girlish figure, or her childish face, or the innocent child's eyes that looked on life with awe and wonder. She has seen too much, known too much, experienced too much ever to palpitate again over the things that thrilled her in her early youth.

So the woman's dream that she can go back and have all the experiences that she missed in her girlhood can never be realized. She who has known marriage and child-bearing and work and worry and struggle can't be carefree and light-hearted as she was as a girl. She who has been to a thousand parties can't be excited as she was when she went to her first ball. She who is no longer young nor beautiful cannot hope to have men flocking about, eager to marry her.

So when she has got her divorce she finds herself with the door of youth closed behind her, with no home, no husband, a forlorn and lonely creature with a hired gigolo to take her around to places and make paid love to her.

Every middle-aged woman who thinks that she is still young and romantic needs to be put into the batty house until she gets old enough to know better.

DOROTHY DIX.

Municipal Bank Plan Attractive

ORILLIA, Ont., May 29.—Mayor J. B. Johnston's proposal to operate a municipal bank here has resulted in invitations to the mayor to speak in other centres, it was learned yesterday.

Mayor Johnston was convinced a municipal bank would be a step in the right direction, but decision on the matter rested with his colleagues. "I have studied the plan seriously for some time and I cannot see where it can fail," he said.

Your Children - By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

All the world loves a circus. And circus people seem to love all the world. Busy as they are, they take time to visit children's hospitals and homes and give off-the-record performances for little shut-ins.

O. R. Barton

For me the yearly pilgrimage still holds the old magic. Perhaps, as we grow older, we are more conscious of the wheels and strings, the mechanics of showdom, but even so, there is no place where one comes quite so close to wonderland.

Watching the next to impossible, giving oneself over to sheer fun and digging up emotions one thought had turned up their toes years ago, is the best of spring tonics.

Whether you go or not concerns me not at all except that I am always sorry anyone has to miss a good show, especially a child.

SHUNTED TO BAD SITES

My object in holding forth on the glories of carnival does not concern the price of admission. I know no circus people. It concerns instead the cities—and my own is one— that seems to take unholy joy in dumping visiting circuses in grounds that must make even the elephants weep with shame.

Usually these shows, big and little, pay a tax to the municipality they visit. This is right enough, because they do take shekels out of town (and that has become heresy to Chambers of Commerce everywhere) and interfere temporarily with local entertainment.

Yet circuses, usually, are pitched onto property that no timid person would voluntarily walk over. Thousands drag themselves over railroad switches, through lakes of mud, over piles of debris, through storm and darkness that lay them bruised and sniffling in bed next day without one single regret. They saw the circus.

TREATED LIKE A PLAGUE

Picture the life of circus people who move from one such scene to another almost daily. Ie seems too bad. True, animals and heavy wagons are hard on property, but not that hard.

Cities like New York and Boston have their regular circus buildings, and some other cities give their visiting performers excellent clean sites on which to pitch camp. In still others it looks as though the advance agent had asked for quarters for a visiting locust colony.

Particularly, I am surprised at the patience of townsfolk who submit to it year after year and say nothing. For the children's sake alone, approaches should be safe, and the footing made dry and clean.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL. COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

Wee Scouty was the first to try the lightning steps. He shouted: "I am game to tackle anything. Come on, bunch, follow me.

"The steps reach to the mountain top, so that's where we will have to stop. It may be that some new and interesting sights we'll see."

A gnome cried, "I'm right after you, and I'll do anything you do. I do not think the lightning man has pulled another trick.

"The lightning steps may fade from sight, so we'd best run with all our might. Don't waste a single minute tots. Climb up, and be real quick!"

It made the lightning man laugh loud to see the happy little crowd climb up the jagged steps. Cried he, "Be careful, now, don't fall."

He waited till they reached the top and then exclaimed, "Here's where I drop right out of sight. Goodby, my friends, and good luck to you all."

Then came a flash. He disappeared! Wee Duncy said, "Gee, I am skeered. We're standing on a mountain top. Just where do we go, now?"

"Aw, quit your fretting," Scouty said. "Please help us figure out, instead, how we are going to leave this place. We'll do it, lad, somehow!"

A gnome then said, "Of course we will. I have a plan that means a thrill. Look down and you will see a pond. Let's all jump into it.

"I'll promise you there'll come no harm, so there is no cause for alarm. And here's the best surprise of all. You won't get wet, one bit!"

"I don't know what it's all about," the Tinies heard brave Scouty shout, "but here I go!" And then he jumped, and bounced high in the air.

"The pond is rubber," Dotty said. "We all can jump, now. Come ahead!" The whole bunch did, and had more fun than they'd had anywhere.

The Tinies meet the rubber man in the next story.

The Housewife's Idea Box

A Rack for Rubbers

It is not a good idea to leave wet rubbers on the floor. They should be hung up to dry. Here is a good suggestion: Place a nickel towel rack at a convenient height on the porch or in the closet where rubbers are kept. Slip the rubbers between the rack and the wall. They will be held by the heels.

Minute Make-Ups

By V. V.

The newest place for costume jewelry is in your hair. The place of honor depends entirely upon the coiffure—side, front or back, near the ringlets or curls. You may even welcome the return of the handy jeweled barrette.

What's What

Please let me know the easiest way to arrange a Memorial Day picnic for a combined fraternity and sorority group. We don't have much money but would like to have an entertaining day. Some of the girls' brothers and two of the other boys will have cars to carry the picnickers and their lunches. Some will play tennis, others will fish. Who pays the expenses for food, etc.?

X. Y. Z.

Answer—The May outing may be arranged in detail at a preliminary meeting, when, to each member of the party, is assigned the providing of certain food or other articles required. It is not customary to permit the motorists to furnish anything except gasoline for their cars. No longer are baskets of provisions a burden to the providers. Eatables are packed in pasteboard boxes. Tea, coffee, or lemon sirup for making lemonade are carried in bottles. Paper cups and papier-mache plates and spoons eliminate the necessity for packing heavy dishes. A freezer of ice cream, tennis rackets, fishing rods, camp cushions, etc., are easily conveyed in different cars. If one of the cars is equipped with radio, music may be provided for chorus singing or for an impromptu dance.

Alex—You should not invite a girl to a prom and week-end in your university town unless you have an older woman to chaperon her, or unless she can afford to travel with a chaperon from her home.

Long, Thick Lashes May Be Made To Curl

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

"Dear Miss Glad: I have very long, thick lashes, and new acquaintances often comment on their unusual length. However, they are also very stiff and straight, and really do not help much to beautify my eyes. I personally believe that if they curled upward, their length would be much more noticeable, and they would do more to bring out the full loveliness of my eyes. Is there any way in which I can train my lashes to curl upward?

"CAROLINE."

GERTRUDE MICHAEL

It is true that lashes that curl upward do more to enhance the loveliness of the eyes than stiff, straight lashes, and you really can train your lashes to curl. When applying your chosen eyelash grower to your lashes each night, use a small eyebrow brush, and brush your lashes upward and back with the lubricated brush. Brush them in this manner each morning, too, and as often as you can. Eventually, they should become trained to curl back naturally. If you want immediate results, however, you can use one of those new eyelash curlers. These curlers are somewhat scissor-like in shape, and have rubber edgings to guard against eyelash breakage. And if used carefully, they curl the lashes most attractively without proving in any way harmful.

* * *

"Dear Miss Glad: Thanks to the reducing instructions contained in your booklet on the 'New Figure', I have succeeded in unburdening myself of 34 excess pounds. And I feel just about 34 years younger! It's funny how young an improved appearance will make a woman feel, isn't it? However, I've been told that constipation sometimes causes an accumulation of unhealthy fat. I certainly don't wish to regain the weight I've lost! But I have a tendency to become constipated quite easily. How can I keep my excretory system functioning regularly?

"MARGIE."

To obtain more perfect evacuation, you must modify your diet, and you must strengthen the muscles of the excretory organs. Our modern diet contains too large an amount of the concentrated foods. Add bran and ager, greens and cereal foods to your daily menu, to supply bulk and roughage. Eat plenty of fresh vegetables and plenty of the stringy, cooked kind such as kale, broccoli, cabbage, beet tops, asparagus and spinach. Eat plenty of fresh fruits. Take a glass of orange juice before breakfast every morning. And be sure to drink at least eight or ten glasses of water every day. In addition, to strengthen the muscles of the excretory organs, practice the following exercise every morning: Stand about three feet away from a chair. Place your hands on the chair, and while in this position, draw the muscles of the stomach and abdomen in toward the spine. Do this for at least ten minutes. Then repeat the exercise, lying flat on the floor.

GLADYS GLAD.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" write, care of Edmonton Bulletin, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling.

Sculptors take the rocky road to success.

Good Taste

By Francine Markel

When decorating a room, realize that too much warm color (red, yellow, etc.) will be exciting and too much of the cool colors (which lie around the blue) will be depressing.

Two women established tearooms in the same neighborhood. In one that had sand-colored walls and sparkling red-orange candle shades, the patrons were always cheerful and business grew. In the other that had cold, light-gray walls and purple candle shades, guests began to whisper as soon as they entered and failure came quick and fast.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any readers inclosing with their questions self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelopes.

Adventurers Now Truthful Under New Measure

OTTAWA, May 30.—A fine of $200 or six months imprisonment or both is the penalty imposed for a species of false advertising under an amendment to the criminal code approved today by the House of Commons.

The provision follows a recommendation of the price spreads commission.

It makes it an offence to include in an advertisement a statement or guarantee of the performance, efficacy or length of life of any product without such statement or guarantee being based upon a proper test.

The Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

MOST GREAT MEN WERE NOT BORN OF POOR-BUT-HONEST PARENTS.
(BIRTHPLACE OF LINCOLN)
FURBAY
BILL VENN

Because Abraham Lincoln and a few other great men rose from poverty to greatness, many people suppose that this is the rule. The fact is: This is decidedly the exception. The English Dictionary of National Biography and the Dictionary of American Biography list in many volumes the biographies of over 40,000 leaders of these two countries. A careful study of these by Frederick Adams Woods and Alleyne Ireland, showed that only 12 per cent. of the great men come from the artisan, skilled and unskilled classes; while the professional classes supplied 88 per cent. In this case, 15 per cent. of the population furnished 80 per cent. of the leaders. In France, a similar study by Prof. Albert Odin showed that 97 per cent. of the leaders came from 3 per cent. of the population.

Fight Pictures At Capitol

Pictures of the world's welterweight championship fight between Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin, pride of Vancouver, and idol of thousands of Canadians, are being rushed to Edmonton by airplane and train. They will reach the city Saturday morning and will be shown at the Capitol theatre Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, it was announced by Manager Wilson of the Capitol today. Tremendous interest in the bout was shown in Edmonton and a real rush to see the pictures of this thrilling battle is expected.

TWO YEARS FOR ASSAULT WHICH MAIMS CHINESE

Two years in Prince Albert penitentiary was the sentence imposed Wednesday on Steve Likosky, found guilty of assaulting Wong Gor, Chinese proprietor of the Henry Cafe, with a heavy Stillson wrench on the morning of April 18 last.

A jury returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Paul Kozmick, jointly charged with Likosky with same offence.

In passing sentence Mr. Justice Tweedie observed that Wong Gor was maimed for life as the result of the attack by Likosky.

"A man has lost the sight of an eye for life. This is a most serious matter and I can not be lenient in the sentence for an offence of this nature."

Kozmick, stepped from the prisoner's dock after his acquittal, only to be immediately taken into custody again. He will face a police court hearing on a charge arising out of the picketing operations of unemployed in front of city cafes some weeks ago.

Both Likosky and Kozmick swore they were the ones who were attacked and not the attackers.

Retailers Meet

YORKTON, Sask., May 30.—Saskatchewan retailers, in convention here, Wednesday unanimously elected Harry E. Semple of Kerrobert as their president and selected Saskatoon as "convention city" for 1936.

CODE RULES DISCARDED BY MANY FIRMS

Industrial Ranks of U.S. Divided as NRA Control Lifts

NEW YORK, May 30.—Scattered breaks appeared Wednesday in the ranks of the NRA army of industry and business—mustered out by the supreme court—but re-enlistments on a voluntary basis continued the general rule.

While great corporations and trade associations added their pledges to a mounting of promises that NRA standards would not be precipitately discarded, several defections occurred in isolated sections.

FUR MEN SECEDE

Price cutting in New York was coupled with a charge virtually the entire fur industry here had abandoned the 35-hour week and was working unlimited overtime.

Three southern plants informed their employees of changes in wage and hour schedules. The Piemont Shirt Company of Greenville, S.C., employing 250 workers, announced a wage reduction averaging 25 per cent and an increase in working hours to from 36 to 40 and 44 a week. The McNutt Battery Company of Knoxville, Tenn., cut the pay of its five employees and increased their hours, and the Boger and Crawford Spinning Mill at Gastonia, N.C., was notified by Philadelphia headquarters a minimum wage of $16 a week and 50-hour shifts would go into effect next week.

TOBACCONISTS FICKLE

In New York the retail cigarette market fluctuated as nervously as an active stock exchange listing.

One big tobacco chain store group joined in the competition, cutting prices and resuming distribution of premium coupons, a practice outlawed by the NRA.

Books, cosmetics and liquors also were being sold at sub-code prices by some stores.

Belief the steel industry would adhere to present wage standards was expressed by Tom Girdler, president and chairman of Republic Steel Corporation.

Workers Burned As Sparks Ignite Flowing Oil Well

MT. PLEASANT, Mich., May 30—Mine workers trying to cap the flow from a gas well in the Crystal oil and gas field of Central Michigan, were painfully burned late Wednesday, three seriously, when sparks from a gasoline engine set fire to the gas fumes.

All of the fire victims were trapped on the derrick for a few minutes after the gas caught fire. The well was brought in Wednesday morning with an estimated flow of 10,000,000 cubic feet.

William Williamson, Milton Santee and Pearl Trowbridge, all of Mt. Pleasant, were so seriously burned doctors feared for their lives.

AMUSEMENTS

CAPITOL

Presenting William Powell and Ginger Rogers, two of the screen's outstanding favorites, and telling a story replete with mystery, suspense, romance and comedy, "Star of Midnight," which opened yesterday at the Capitol for a run of three days, is a delightfully entertaining and completely absorbing picture.

Powell and Miss Rogers, teamed for the first time in this production, are absolutely at home in roles made to order for their talents. As a modern Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson combination, they work to solve a murder mystery. Their detective teamwork is unique, to say the least, with the delectable Miss Rogers providing more laughs and heart throbs than clues, although she does inadvertently manage to provide Powell with the key to the whole mystery.

The well-conceived, closely-knit plot moves gaily at times and at other times with stark tensity toward a hair-raising climax. The romantic theme is subtly woven into the main story.

STRAND

They've promoted Ted Healy.

Known best for his buffoonery and machine-gun patter, the popular comedian throws off his jester's role for one of the most important screen roles of his career.

This is the portrayal of Detective Sergeant Heath, the district attorney's chief investigator in S. S. Van Dine's newest murder mystery, "The Casino Murder Case," opening Saturday at the Strand theatre.

As Sergeant Heath, Healy matches wits with the famous scientific detective, Philo Vance, characterized by Paul Lukas.

The new role further proves Healy's versatility in characterization. Within the last few months he has played a medicine man, a baseball player, a petty racketeer, a foil for William Powell and various other portrayals.

"The Casino Murder Case" was directed by Edwin Marin.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

INTIMATE GLIMPSES and INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

—BY DAN THOMAS—

KATHERINE DEMILLE spends all her spare time in the movies studying the tricks of other players.

WHILE on the subject of pictures we come to that old bugaboo, double features. Every month that theatres continue playing these double bills drives Hollywood's producers a little closer to the nut farm.

They're in a quandary and frankly admit they don't know what to do. Right from the first they have taken the stand that the public would much prefer to see a program consisting of one good feature, a short comedy, a newsreel, and a one-reel novelty or cartoon than it would to see two features.

Exhibitors, on the other hand, have contended that two features help their business. Hence the deadlock.

However, studio executives feel that something has to be done. Either theatres will have to go back to showing single features or the studios will have to gear themselves up to a higher production speed. Consequently, they are endeavoring to find out just what the public actually wants.

At a loss on how to gather this information themselves, they have turned to the newspaper correspondents here for aid. They're asking us to get a decision from our readers. They already have signified their willingness to abide by that decision.

Demands Free And Independent Austria

VIENNA, May 30—Chancellort Kurt Schuschnigg, in an address described as his reply to Adolf Hitler's recent speech before the German Reichstag, yesterday reiterated Austria's demand for arms equality.

Hitler's implied suggestion Austrans be allowed to vote as to the kind of government they want Schuschnigg dismissed with the assertion no plebiscite is needed to show how overwhelmingly the nation backs his regime.

Austria voted with "blood—with the precious blood no Austrian can ever forget."—when an abortive Nazi putsch was put down last July 26, the chancellor said.

"A free and altogether independent Austria" was the permanent and definite result of that uprising, Schuschnigg declared.

OTTAWA, May 30.—Making untrue or misleading statements to obtain a passport or visa is made an offence under the criminal code by an amendment approved Wednesday in the House of Commons.

The penalty is imprisonment for two years or a fine of $500 or both.

44-Hour Week Is Sought For Postal Workers

VICTORIA, May 30.—Shorter working hours for postal employees is sought in a resolution passed Wednesday at the closing session of the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association here. The resolution, which was forwarded to the national executive, asked for a 44-hour week, with powers for the postmasters to regulate the working schedule according to local conditions.

INTERESTING QUESTIONS

Three interesting hands with inquiries are given today. The first comes from Akron, Ohio. Bidding in the hand shown below went: South (fourth hand), 1 club; North, 2 spades, to force; South, 6 spades, as that is his second biddable suit; North, 7 clubs; South, 7 spades; West, doubled. The question is, what should East lead? He led the 8 of spades, and West "only smiled."

I cannot imagine a worse lead. Having the K-J of diamonds East should not lead that. His choice had to be between leading hearts or clubs. As West doubled after hearing clubs bid, and as a grand slam was bid in the latter suit, I wonder that East did not suspect that his partner might be void of clubs, and lead the suit.

The second inquiry and hand are from Santa Monica, Cal. The inquiry is whether spades or hearts should be the final call.

South must make an opening bid of 1 heart, which his partner must shift to 1 spade. After which sound bidding may vary. South may shift to 2 no trumps, support spades or rebid his hearts, to show a good 5-card suit.

The last bid is the best. North then may support hearts and in turn South may support spades. It really makes no difference whether hearts or spades become trumps. Five-odd should be made at either call.

The third inquiry comes from Providence, R.I., and concerns the following hand, which East plays at 4-spades. Look it over before Monday.

COMMUNITY KITCHEN AGITATORS GIVEN JAIL TERMS

Edmonton Bulletin
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER IN PUBLIC SERVICE

No Toleration Of Mob Violence Is Warning Of Court

Six-Month Terms for Men Who Led Rush in Which Constable Was Injured.

Mob violence will not be tolerated in this country under any circumstances, Mr. Justice Tweedie stated in criminal court Wednesday afternoon in sentencing Murray Saunders and Edward Rogers each to six months imprisonment for assaulting a policeman at the community relief kitchen.

Evidence of crown witnesses, officials at the kitchen, was to the effect that the two accused had led a crowd of more than 100 single unemployed in a rush against the office at the kitchen early last month. Special Constable Douglas suffered an injured hand in attempting to hold the office door shut against the crowd, according to testimony.

After R. F. Jackson, defence counsel, had argued that Saunders and Rogers could not be guilty of assault simply because they happened to be in a crowd that was demanding beds for some single men, the court stated:

CROWD LEADERS

"These men led a crowd of between 100 and 150 men in an effort to enforce mob violence. The unemployed single men all over the province should recognize that the taxpayers of Alberta are straining to the limit to make the unemployed as comfortable as they can.

"There should be full co-operation between the unemployed and those in authority when grievances occur. That's the best way of settling disputes. The single men must learn they can not resort to violence," His Lordship declared, and then passed sentence.

TROUBLE CAUSERS

E. B. Cogswell, K.C., informed the court that the accused pair had caused a great deal of trouble to employees at the soup kitchen and to the police.

Witnesses swore that Rogers had shouted, "Let's go, boys!" just before the door had been pushed in.

On a regular trip of inspection, M. J. Beatty, Fergus, Ontario, president of the Beatty Washer Company, arrived in Edmonton Thursday morning. Including in his trip all the larger centres of the west, Mr. Beatty, who is a guest at the Macdonald hotel during his visit in Edmonton, will proceed to the coast after leaving the city.

Dies After Illness Of Short Time

LOUISE PORTER,
21-year-old daughter of V. A. Porter, prominent city business man, who died Wednesday evening after a short illness.

LOUISE PORTER DIES AT AGE 21

Leader in youthful and social circles for several years and an active and popular participant in every form of girls' club work, Miss Louise Porter, daughter of V. A. Porter, manager of International Harvester Co., Ltd., died suddenly in a city hospital Wednesday evening.

Miss Porter, who was 21 years of age, had been ill only a few days and her death comes as a great shock to her family and large circle of friends.

She was born at Brooks, Alberta, but came here as a child. She attended Alex Taylor and Victoria high schools in this city. At the time of her death she was working in the office of the Hudson's Bay Co. Ltd.

In addition to her parents Miss Porter is survived by two sisters, Verna and Jean, and six brothers: Ralph of Fort Saskatchewan, and Ray, Allan, Harvey, Donald and Harold, all of Edmonton.

She was a past president of the Tamajoo Girls' Club and was on the executives of other young people's organizations.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Two Judges Ill: To Adjourn Court

Illness of two supreme court judges, Mr. Justice Boyle and Mr. Justice Ford, will make necessary an adjournment of the present sitting of criminal court here.

Mr. Justice Tweedie, who has been presiding since the sitting opened two weeks ago, must preside at a sitting opening at Hanna next week. The appeal court opens here Monday and members of the bench of that division will be unable to take other work.

E. B. Cogswell, K.C., stated Thursday that it would therefore be necessary to adjourn the sitting of criminal court for one or two weeks. About half the docket, including all jury trials have been disposed of.

Mr. Justice Ford made his first appearance in two weeks at courthouse office Thursday morning. He has been ill for several weeks.

A local option plebiscite will be taken at Beaverlodge on July 10.

To inspect the Cooking Lake sea base, members of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce council will accompany civic officials on an official tour, Thursday afternoon.

Miss Betty Morris and Miss L. Lapointe left over the Canadian Pacific Railway Thursday morning for Ottawa to spend the summer in the capital.

Dances conducted under the auspices of the Unemployed Married Men's Association in the Emerald hall on 97 street have been disturbing residents of the neighborhood, it was stated in a complaint to city police Thursday.

Bank clearings for the week ending Thursday, May 30 totalled $2,941,471.54 according to figures released by the Edmonton clearing house. Figures for the corresponding week last year were $3,387,666.98.

G. E. Hayward, 9828 108 street, told police Wednesday night that his car was stolen from the arena during the basketball game. It was recovered near the stock yards, where four young men had run it into a mudbank as conclusion to a joyride.

Plans for the "prosperity parade" which it is proposed to stage at the opening of the summer fair, will be discussed at a meeting of the Edmonton Exhibiton association in the council chamber, Civic block, at 8 p.m., Thursday. All those contributing floats are asked to attend this meeting when details of the parade will be discussed.

FARMERS SEEK DEBT SLASHES

Drastic demands made by farmers from the St. Paul and Bonnyville districts for reduction of their debts will hardly be acceded to by the Board of Review appointed under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act. In one case a 70 per cent reduction was asked in a mortgage indebtedness, while in two others farmers asked that a 50 per cent reduction be made in all secured debts, that interest accrued be wiped out, and that unsecured creditors take a two-third reduction in the amounts owing them.

A St. Paul farmer owing $15,000 on three quarter-sections was advised to go through bankruptcy. A Bonnyville farmer sought release of his homestead from a mortgage given to a bank. He stated the improvements on his property gave the bank ample security for the loan made. Proposals will be formulated in three of the cases.

CITY VISITOR FINDS BOTTLE WON'T BOUNCE

It was one of life's little tragedies, ladies and gentlemen, but it caused both sorrow and amusement. Sorrow to the owner and amusement to those who witnessed it.

The tragedy hapened in front of the Macdonald hotel when a traveller tried to juggle with a suspicious looking parcel. He missed in the performance of the trick and "believe it or not" 40 ounce bottles of any kind of liquor don't bounce when they hit pavement. This one shattered into a thousand fragments.

Immediately a crowd gathered. The doorman called for a porter to sweep up. Judging by the loving care with which he took the remains to their last rest and dallied over the job he was sharing equally the remorse of the owner.

But the owner simply climbed into his car and went to buy another.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

The chain letter mania has shot its bolt, run its course, withered away, headed in.

A few early birds dipped deep in the dividends, the late-rising chirpers got chiseled—even the worms that stayed up all night found that something must have misfired.

What do you think of chain letters now?

The Inquiring Reporter got these answers:

THELMA MacINTOSH, stenographer: "They're all right if everybody keeps them going. The idea was a novelty and provided a good deal of entertainment."

GEORGE MURDOCH, prospector: "They're a darn nuisance. When 20,000 people have to mail a dollar before the man on the bottom of the first list gets paid, it sort of narrows your chances."

* * *

CISS HASSAN, comptometer operator: "Don't talk to me about chain letters!"

* * *

WALTER MacDONALD, broker's clerk: "They are fine things to start, but it's a mistake to climb aboard the end car. But no kicks here—I didn't get fished."

Hundreds Wild Ducks Perish In Dust Storms

CHINOOK, Mont., May 30—Bodies of hundreds of wild ducks, apparently victims of choking dust storms on the high southwestern plains, through which they passed on their northward spring migration, have been found around mountain lakes in this region.

Examination of their lungs and stomachs showed them to be filled with dust and hardened mud. A number of Hawks' bodies also were found.

One Charge Only Must Be Proved In MacPhail Case

OTTAWA, May 30—Judge J. E. Daly, commissioner inquiring into charges levelled by Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., against Inspector J. D. Dawson, of the penitentiaries branch, today ruled the inquiry must be confined to the truth or falsity of the charge that Dawson used abusive and profane language about the woman member of parliament for Southeast Grey.

The judge also ruled Miss MacPhail and her counsel and A. G. Hall, a former prisoner to whom Dawson is alleged to have made the statement, had the right to examine the files of the department of justice and select any documents they wished to lay before the commissioner.

Police Court

A string of criminal convictions that appeared to mark mile posts in the later half of a life that got sidetracked was read by the court when Albert Portugais, 45, answered a charge of lifting nine pairs of socks from a local department store. Conviction on this theft brought him six months' hard labor. Starting in 1916, his former offences were mostly concerning illegal possession of drugs with a few cases of theft.

Decision was reserved in the afternoon when the crown asked that Annie Humaniuk, convicted of vagrancy, be given a chance she requested to return to her parents, living on a farm near Saskatoon.

Richard Peterson and Mrs. Rose Kidder were convicted of corrupting a child and remanded for sentence to the afternoon session.

Members of the Ukrainian Conservative Association will meet at party headquarters on Thursday evening to discuss plans for the Conservative nominating convention.

Jack Stovel, 10531 133 street, reported that six homer pigeons were stolen from his residence about three weeks ago. Their homing instincts have not brought them back to the dove cote.

Of Ashdown's Limited, D. B. Thompson, Winnipeg, arrived in Edmonton Thursday morning on a business trip. Mr. Thompson is a guest at the Macdonald hotel during his visit in Edmonton.

St. John Ambulance Brigade, No. 61, will see moving pictures of work carried on by the travelling outdoor clinic, to be shown by Dr. E. T. Braithwaite, at a meeting to be held Thursday (tonight) at the headquarters, 10137 98 street.

To Co-Operate On Food Price Probe

City Comptroller John Hodgson and James C. Thompson, provincial auditor, are co-operating on the food-price survey ordered by city council following demands of relief cases for an increased scale of allowances, it was learned Thursday.

The investigation is being made with a view to deciding whether there is any foundation to the contention by unemployed that cost of foodstuffs has shown a material advance as compared to 1934. Relief Manager H. F. McKee maintains the increase is between one and two per cent. Unemployed are asking for a 15 per cent. increase in the scale.

PREMIER REID, CABINET AGAIN MEET DOUGLAS

Discussion on Interim Report Continued on Thursday

Discussion on Major C. H. Douglas's interim report on the feasibility of applying a scheme of social credit to this province was continued on Thursday between Major Douglas and Premier R. G. Reid and members of his cabinet.

Neither Major Douglas nor Premier Reid had any comment to make on the nature of the discussion or on the line followed.

REID NOT SURE

Asked if this was the last talk the cabinet would have with Major Douglas prior to him returning to England, Premier Reid said he was not sure but that further conferences might be held.

He declared that the cabinet would hold further discussions on the report prior to any public release or statement. As a result of the Thursday discussion, he said, there was considerable matter over which the government would have to ponder.

LAST MEETING

Major Douglas, when interviewed, surmised that this was the last meeting he would have with the cabinet as a whole, although he thought that he would be holding a further discussion with Premier Reid and perhaps one or two ministers.

Major Douglas repeated that he hoped to leave for home over the coming week-end.

Taxpayers Meet Tuesday, June 4

Public meeting of taxpayers will be held in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday at 8 p.m. for the purpose of discussing the interchange power agreement between the Calgary Power Co. and the city which expires this fall. Question of whether the city should continue the pact in a modified form or make such extensions to the local plant as would enable it to handle the city's peak power load will be dealt with.

Commissioners received a petition signed by 91 taxpayers which requested that such a meeting be called.

SPECIAL MEET CITY COUNCIL MONDAY NEXT

Decide Whether Amounts Deducted From Relief To Be Reinstated

City council will hold a special meeting at 5 p.m. Monday to decide whether amounts deducted from unemployed married men's relief for refusal to work will be reinstated. Leaders of the jobless have called off the relief strike on the condition that the men be paid the money they have lost to date.

Following the decision Wednesday to suspend the strike pending action by council on relief demands, 24 relief cases went to work Thursday morning on projects in various parts of the city.

It is estimated that relief cases on strike have lost about $1,000, approximately 500 men being affected by the cut-off order. Women and children have not suffered as a result of this action, the relief department having reduced the total food allowance for the family by $1.88, which is the man's share.

Tenders for the supply of departmental uniforms will also be discussed at this meeting. The uniform contract totals about $11,000.

URGE PAVING HIGH BRIDGE

Paving of the traffic deck on the High Level bridge at an estimated cost of $12,000 is being recommended by city commissioners and the proposal will be submitted to city council at a special meeting at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

It was originally planned to pave only the south half of the deck, which would cost in the neighborhood of $6,000, but commissioners are of the opinion now that the whole surface should be paved. Three or four weeks would be required to complete the work and while the bridge is closed vehicular traffic will be re-routed via the Low Level and Fifth street bridges.

The bridge floor is at present in poor shape owing to the shifting of wooden blocks with which it is surfaced.

Larger land sales effected by the city land department recently follow one lot between 145 and 146 streets on the south side of the Stony Plain road, $150, the purchaser to move a dwelling on this lot; the second lot east of 133 street on the north side of 102 avenue, $5,000, the buyer to erect a five-room bungalow at a cost of about $5,000; southeast double corner of 87 avenue and 111 street, $800.

WHEAT MARKET PLODS ALONG; SMALL GAINS

WINNIPEG, May 30.—The wheat market plodded along through another dull trading session today but with small gains to its credit. Absence of offerings eased a three-day selling pressure and enabled prices to close ¾-½ higher, with May at 82¼ and July 83⅜.

Trading was dull with a small export business from the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards reported.

The market held small gains due entirely to the absence of offerings. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛-½d lower.

RAINS DOUSE SCOTIA FIRES

SEEDING NOW NEAR END AT PEACE RIVER

80 Per Cent. Coarse Grains Sown According to N.A.R. Report

Wheat seeding is practically finished in some sections of the Peace River territory, according to the crop report of the Northern Alberta Railways for the week previous to May 29, issued on Thursday by authority of John Callaghan, general manager. Coarse grains, while not so far advanced are seeded up to 80 per cent in some areas.

MORE OATS

At Dawson Creek seeding is being rapidly completed with much larger percentage of oats this year on account of the late season. Weather is warm and there is plenty of moisture.

Pouce Coupe experienced rain last Thursday and Friday, which delayed seeding, but the last three days have been warm and seeding is again general.

Seeding is general again at Hythe after being delayed with heavy rain last Thursday. Seeding is 40 per cent completed. Beaverlodge is experiencing warm, clear weather, with wheat seeding about one-half finished. Wheat seeding is [illegible] per cent completed around Wembley and other grains are 20 per cent. completed. Wheat seeding is expected to be finished at Grande Prairie by the end of this week. Clairmont reports wheat seeding 75 per cent. finished.

AMOUNT VARIES

Other sections of the territory report along similar lines. The amount seeded varies from 50 to 75 per cent in wheat and from 20 to 60 in coarse grains, but the work is progressing rapidly.

BANKING IDEALS THAT LIVE ON

"The value of that enterprise (the Bank of Montreal) ought not to be measured by its success as a joint-stock undertaking, by the amount of its capital or the size of its dividends, but by the security it has given to those who have trusted it, the facilities it has furnished for the exchange and the increase of commodities, and the assistance it has contributed to the development of the country."

The Bank, now well on in the second century of its life, still wishes to be measured by the considerations mentioned in the foregoing quotation from "The Centenary of the Bank of Montreal," published in 1917.

Security, facilities, assistance—those have been the objectives of the Bank since its foundation in 1817. They are the objectives today and will be in the tomorrows of Canadian life.

Western Canadian Racehorses Dominating Prairie Tracks

Western bred racers of all ages are winning race after race this spring. At Calgary there were more purses won by Alberta-raised race horses than ever before. The new crop of Alberta two-year-olds is especially good. Here are some of the stirring finishes provided by the west's own blood stock. The champion of all western bred seniors is Help Yourself, who runs at Edmonton next week. The big black asks no favors from either the equine visitors from across the line or his compatriots.

Life Abstainer Asks Law One Drink—Man Is Drunk

OTTAWA, May 27.—John Livingstone Brown, Liberal member for Lisgar, who has never taken a drink in his 68 years, wanted the House of Commons Wednesday to settle the age-long question of when is a man drunk. He wanted incorporated in the criminal code what he said was a scientific fact that one drink incapacitated a man for quick thinking. His plea fell on deaf ears.

Without opposition, the house passed in committee stage an amendment to the code making jail sentences obligatory for drunk drivers. The Lisgar member, a strong prohibitionist, claimed magistrates considered a man sober as long as he could stand on his feet and thought the house should settle for all time the hair-line distinction between sobriety and drunkeness.

Minister of justice Hugh Guthrie said some magistrates believed they could fine drunk drivers or suspend sentence. This led to the proposed amendment.

HI-School HI-Lights ON SPORT
By CHARLES TODD

Soccer fans picked the wrong winner once again when Eastwood's famous defence held and their forward line completed the damage by scoring a pair of goals to give their school a 2-1 win over Scona at the South Side Athletic Grounds last night. Eastwood gains possession of the Rutherford Cup for one year as a reward for their finishing at the top of the soccer heap.

The far east end institute won four straight games and were conceded one for a perfect five game count. Scona's only loss was last night at the hands of the fighting Greenlees crew.

Neither squad could break the scoreless deadlock during the first half. Ten minutes after play resumed in the second half Bon Ferrier opened things up when he drove Don Stanley's well timed pass into the net. Eastwood boosted their lead to two when Bill Hales headed in a cross pass from Andy McCann.

Down two goals and with only fifteen minutes of play left Scona became desperate. They played wide open in an effort to equalize things but the best they could do was to avoid a shut out when Sinclair let drive a low fast shot that had Mitchell beat a mile.

LINEUPS

Scona—Scott; Tinkham, Jones; Potts, Jim Anderson, Smitten; Wotherspoon, Sinclair, A. Brown, W. Brown, E. Phillips, Flowers and Adamson.

Scona had their billed baseball game with Victoria postponed until this afternoon. They now have to play softball and baseball at the same time. The result will be that both squads will take the field considerably weaker because many of the boys play on both teams.

PONOKA WINS FROM MIRROR NINE, 10 TO 3

PONOKA, Alta., May 30—Pounding three Mirror pitchers from the box Ponoka came through with a crushing victory of 10-3 to win the first league game of senior baseball of the Central Alberta league. Ponoka counted three runs on the first trip to the plate while Mirror was quickly retired. In the third Johnson tied the count by featuring a home run with two men on bases.

Cecil Lewis made a two-base hit in the fifth inning which started a five run rally from the Ponoka club. Ponoka's final run was chalked up in the eighth inning when Butler knocked a home run. This was Ponoka's first game on the newly constructed park which is in perfect condition.

15 STALLION CLUBS FORMED

Under a co-operative plan instituted by the provincial agricultural department, 15 stallion clubs have been organized in the northern section of the province, by which a number of districts have been enabled to obtain the services of purebred stallions at a minimum cost to farmers, Hon. F. S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture, announced on Thursday.

By terms or the new plan, farmers are enabled to organize into groups for the purchase and maintenance of purebred stallions in these districts. Purchase of these stallions is carried out by a committee of three from each group, with assistance and advice given by officials of the agriculture department. Each member of the group pays a fee in proportion to the number of mares he has, the combined amount collected being sufficient to provide the purchase price of the stallion.

No other fee is paid by any member for three years. One of the group is selected to act as keeper of the stallion, for which service, at the end of three years, he is permitted full ownership of the horse.

The plan is operating under the supervision of Dr. P. R. Talbot, provincial veterinarian. Clubs now operating are at Clover Bar, Rochester, Tomahawk, Armena, Dapp, Falher, Donnelly, Linaria, St. Paul, Mundare, two at Spirit River and two at Grande Prairie.

Crop Increases

OTTAWA, May 30.—While a substantial increase was shown in the volume of wheat crop of India for 1935, the acreage sown this year showed a decrease as compared with 1934, according to a cable received by the Dominion bureau of statistics from its Calcutta correspondent.

Being On Relief Implies No Stigma, Court Rules

It's no disgrace to be on relief and it's something that should not be brought to the attention of a witness unless this fact is material evidence in a case, Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie declared in supreme criminal court Wednesday.

His Lordship's remarks were made during the cross-examination of Dalton Hayes, defence witness in the trial of Steve Likosky and Paul Kozmick, charged with assault causing grievous bodily harm on a Chinese cafe proprietor.

"You are on relief, are you not?" E. B. Cogswell, K.C., crown counsel, asked the witness.

"I am not," Hayes replied and then the court interrupted.

"There are lots of good men on relief. Why dwell on that fact? Some of our finest citizens are on relief. It is all they have to live on and this fact shouldn't be stressed unless it is necessary to the case," His Lordship concluded.

Gradually working toward traditional "Sunny Alberta" weather, the Weather Lady on Wednesday managed to push the mercury up to 72 above zero, the highest point reached during the day. The lowest the mercury dipped in the last 24 hours was at 4 a.m. on Thursday, when 48 was reached.

The mean temperature during Wednesday was 62.5.

At midnight the temperature was 58; at 1 a.m. 56; 2 a.m. 53; 3 a.m. 50; 4 a.m. 48; 5 a.m. 50; 6 a.m. 50; 7 a.m. 55; 8 a.m. 62 and by 9 a.m. it had risen to 66.

The forecast is for partly cloudy until Friday with a few scattered showers and not much change in temperature.

The northern weather is generally warmer, with Hudson Hope at 8 a.m. on Thursday reporting 60, Beaverlodge reported 58, while the highest point touched by 8 a.m. was at Grande Prairie and Spirit River with 68.

Churchman Held On Theft Charge

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 30.—Thomas Soper, former treasurer of Gower Street United Church, was sentenced to 18 months in prison with hard labor Wednesday after he pleaded guilty of embezzling from the church trustee fund.

Shortages of about $10,000 were discovered in his accounts, covering a three-year period.

One Suit Of Clothes Lasts For Many Kin

You've heard of the "Wonderful one 'hoss' shay," that according to the well-known verse shattered all-time records for horse-drawn vehicles by rolling over the 'ard, 'ard 'ighway for a round century. But here's the story about the wonderful two-piece suit of clothes.

The story came out during the hearing of a "suit" for judicial separation before Mr. Justice Lunney in supreme civil court Wednesday afternoon.

The plaintiff, a comely young woman, was reciting the story of her disillusionment to her counsel.

"Did your husband fool you about how he was fixed financially when he married you?" her lawyer asked.

"Yes, he certainly did," was the spirited reply.

"I found out four months after the wedding he borrowed the suit he was married in from his brother. His brother got the suit from his father before that and my husband gave it to his uncle when one of the family died to bury his son in," the outraged plaintiff declared.

"It's a shame that such a durable garment should have had so ignobile an end," counsel for the husband remarked, while judge and spectators joined in laughter.

U.S. Bill For Utility Control Goes To Senate

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Brushing aside shouts of unconstitutionality, the United States Senate voted Wednesday to take up the Roosevelt administration's bill to abolish "unnecessary" public utility holding companies.

Pleas for delay, so as to measure the bill by constitutional standards set in the NRA decision, failed to check its immediate consideration. But at once the controversial legislation ran into vigorous debate and Senator Daniel Hastings, Delaware Republican, warned of a later effort to return the bill to committee.

KANSAS RIVERS GO ON RAMPAGE

KANSAS CITY, May 30.—Rampaging rivers and creeks drove families from lowland homes Wednesday in southeastern Kansas, swept away railroad tracks, snarled train schedules and damaged crops.

A period of heavy rains sent streams over their banks. A cloudburst also tied up rail traffic and damaged bridges in the vicinity of Sanderson, Tex.

The Walnut river forced several families to abandon their homes at Douglass, Kas. A few residents near Neodesha fled to higher ground after the Verdigris and Fall rivers left their banks. Thirty-five families were removed from lowland residences flooded by the Blue river near Kansas City.

Cross-Channel Automobile Takes Eight-Hour Trip

DOVER, England, May 30.—A novel amphibian motor car clambered, dripping wet, onto dry land here last night and rolled on toward London after crossing the channel from Calais in eight hours and 20 minutes. The machine was operated by Jacob Boulig, German sportsman.

It was the first such crossing but such a motor car, equipped with paddlewheels is not likely to prove popular, since regular channel steamers from Dover to Calais make the trip in about an hour.

ROOSEVELT IS FEARFUL OF CUT-THROATS

President Breaks Silence Amid Effort to Get Order From Chaos

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Roosevelt closely scrutinized reaction of industry and the public last night as, with scores of advisers, he strove to reduce the chaotic aftermath of NRA's destruction to an orderly plan of procedure.

Breaking his silence for the first time since the supreme court of the United States killed the blue eagle, he told newspaper correspondents, far more important than what is happening in Washington were the immediate consequences of the decision throughout industry.

FEAR CUT-THROATING

On his desk, he said, were numerous assertions by various code groups and trade associations of an intention to stick by the codes until new legislation could be formulated. He added, however, cut-throat tactics by a minority in those industries could disrupt the whole scheme.

Of more than 75 businessmen, lawyers and editors, whom the president said he had consulted, one of the outstanding was General Hugh S. Johnson, the Blue Eagle's first champion.

Johnson's idea, as described in a well-informed quarter, was that Congress should give the federal trade commission authority to suspend provisions of the anti-trust laws, permitting industry and labor to join voluntarily in codes of fair practice.

SPANISH PRINCE SEEKS HIS WIFE

PARIS, May 30.—Prince Alfonso of Bourbon, Count of Covadonga and erstwhile Prince of Asturias, is on his way to New York to test an independence from family ties that nearly cost his life.

This he intimated to the Associated Press shortly before he sailed aboard the Washington, his primary object to win back his Cuban commoner wife.

The count's wife, the former Edelmira Sampedro-Ocejo Robato, who left him in Europe several months ago, arrived in New York Tuesday from Havana to meet him.

Escape from the restrictions of royal birthright was one of the most hazardous moments in an adventuresome life, he said.

He dodged out of Paris alone for Lausanne, Switzerland, Christmas Day, 1932, to meet his fiancee. The Prince never returned to his family and his marriage the following June 21 definitely estranged him from his father, former King Alfonso XIII of Spain.

PATS and PANS by —BILL LEWIS—

Riding on the waves of their supporters' cheers that roared and echoed across the Arena, J. Percy Page's Commercial Grads swept to a 37-30 victory over Tulsa Stenos last night to take the lead in their international basketball series. . . . But the accomplishment was not as easy as it reads on paper. . . . The locals had the stiffest kind of battle against a team never was out of sight over the horizon, a team that was always in the picture and refused to be erased until the last gun sounded a triumph for the Edmontonians.

Grads went into the game on an even basis with the challengers from far Oklahoma, but knowing a defeat would count heavily against them in the best-of-five series. . . . They came out with a lead of two games to one and established themselves as favorites to retain the international title and, with it, the Underwood trophy.

Despite the disparity in height, Grads proved their system of basketball was still capable of overcoming a team of tall girls. . . . A good illustration of this is shown in the fact that, while the visitors took 43 of the 54 tip-offs during the contest, they were still unable to beat out the superior combination and shooting of the champs.

What will be the eventual outcome of the series remains to be seen but there is still plenty of doubt in the minds of sports followers in the city. . . . Grads may finish the whole thing by a victory Saturday night, when the fourth game is scheduled, or Tulsa may pull through with a win that will send the playoff into a deciding game next week.

Vanguard of the racing fraternity that is flocking to the city for the spring meeting which commences at the Exhibition Grounds track Saturday began arriving in the city this morning. . . . Among those reaching the city were Lou Davies and Herbert Lister, maestros of the form charts.

All of them were enthusiastic over the class of thoroughbreds that are being brought here for the meeting which lasts from June 1 to June 8, and are confident that the event will really make racing one of the main sports in Alberta's capital city.

They speak enthusiastically of the running of the Alberta Derby at Calgary yesterday, which was won by Taxaurelius. . . . Nellie Quince, locally-owned filly, ran out of the money but punters will be watching her closely when she starts here.

Wee Babe Is Second In Scoring

the tiny mite of the Grad machine, was again in her brilliant form last night, scoring 11 points and taking second place in the honors. Injured at Windsor a few weeks ago and forced out of action during the series with Des Moines girls, Babe has made a splendid recovery against Tulsa Stenos as Grads seek to retain the international trophy.

Page Team Scores Win Over Visitors In Third Encounter

Locals Take Early Lead and Stay in Front by Determined Struggle—Noel Macdonald Is Leading Scorer

By BILL LEWIS

A gallant finish after an impressive start gave Coach Percy Page's Commercial Grads a 37-30 triumph over Tulsa Stenos at the Arena last night in the third game of their best-of-five series for the international women's basketball championship.

By virtue of their victory, Grads assumed a 2-1 lead in games over the Oklahomans, who had knotted the series at one game each on Monday by winning 53-49, after the locals had captured the opener by that same count.

The Page quintet will now enter the fourth engagement Saturday with an edge on the challengers, who hold the official United States championship, but expecting the most strenuous opposition of the present playoff.

DEMONSTRATE WHY THEY HOLD TITLES

Throughout 40 minutes of play that proved to Edmontonians just why their favorites had retained the Dominion, international and world's championships so long, the 1935 Grads fought off the never-ending onslaughts of the Americans and retaliated by rifle-like thrusts that time after time brought results.

While a crowd of 5,000 cheering fans urged them on, Percy Page's proteges staged a comeback that made the throng forget their defeat of Monday night. The Grads played with but one idea in mind—that they must win this game. To them it was the "key game" of the series and they battled from start to finish in order to clinch the verdict.

The Tulsans, likewise, struggled every minute of the route to follow up their winning pace of Monday but could not hold the locals. It was through no fault of their own, however, for they never once quit trying to stop the sharpshooting marksmen of the Edmonton squad.

HELD EXCITEMENT

Result of all this was that the customers were treated to the grandest kind of basketball exhibition. Every minute of the four periods was crammed with thrills and excitement, as well as the finest brand of team-work and sharpshooting that could be desired.

It was the sort of game that had the pew-holders on their feet cheering most of the way and was climaxed by a roar of huzzahs at the finish that sounded like a glacier toppling down Mount Robson. Not in years have Edmonton fans been as happy as they proved themselves to be at the conclusion of last night's game and they showed this by that tumultous avalanche of cheers.

There wasn't a time during the entire 40 minutes that the issue was definitely settled until the closing seconds and this factor, more than any other, was what kept the customers on edge all the way.

ALWAYS IN FRONT

Grads led at the end of every quarter of the game, although by only the narrowest of margins. They out-pointed the visitors in the first session, 12-11, but only after staving off a determined rush of the visitors, who made a great comeback after being down 7-0 in the first few minutes of the battle.

After the sternest kind of a duel in the second period, Grads nosed out the Oklahomans by nine points to seven during the 10 minutes to hold a lead of 21 to 18 when half-time was called.

For the only quarter of the game, the Page machine was outscored in the third canto. Play was unusually close and, while the Tulsans could garner only seven points, six was all that fell to the lot of the locals during the session, thus cutting the Edmonton lead to 27-25 as they entered the final quarter of the contest.

NEALE INJURED

Doris Neale, stellar guard of the champions, was injured just before the gun sounded to end the third period, and had to leave the floor, being replaced by Etta Dann, who played throughout the fourth period and turned in a starry performance.

Starting in the final period with but two points to the good, Grads quickly ran their lead up to seven without a halt.

At this point, Coach Beck, of the visitors, so annoyed Referee Arnold Henderson that the latter took him to task and called a technical foul on the visitors.

The Oklahomans tried their hardest to cut down the local leadership in the closing minutes, but it ended up with the Grads still seven points in front.

NOEL TOPS SCORERS

Scoring star of the game was slim Noel MacDonald, centre star of the champions. Noel dropped in five field baskets and six free shots out of as many attempted, to mark up a total of 16 points.

Babe Belanger, who was next in line for marksmanship honors, accounted for five field goals and one free toss—a total of 11 points.

Alberta Williams was top scorer of the visitors with seven points, made up of three baskets and one free throw.

Golf Facts . . NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Here are results that make teaching worth while. L. F. Anschultz writes: "I have been a consistent reader of your Golf Facts as published in our local paper.

"Last August, in my 70th year, I broke 'the jinx' which has been hanging over me for 28 long years in playing golf. In 1906 I shot an 81. August last I made a 39-41 score and you can just bet your bottom dollar that gave me a big thrill. You have full credit. I have a little practice room in my house where I am trying to 'develop the habit' which you suggested in your recent articles."

In 28 years at golf you're bound to know how little value is to be had from orthodox teachings. To afford a man with such understanding a means of being young also gives me a big thrill.

Tops Grads In Scoring Last Night

NOEL MacDONALD

Again last night Noel MacDonald was the leading scorer with 16 points for the Grads as the homesters took a 37-30 victory over Tulsa Stenos. Noel played a brilliant game for the Grads and expects at least one more performance equally as clever.

FOURTH FIGHT WELTER TITLE NOW HOPEFUL

Fight Apparent Through Hot Argument Over Battle Yesterday

NEW YORK, May 30.—The dim outline of a fourth fight in the making between Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross to decide perhaps once and for all the rightful ruler of the welterweights seemed apparent today through the smoke of hot argument over their third fight and the controversial decision is brought.

At the end of the 15 slashing rounds the two little terriers fought Tuesday night, Referee Jack Dempsey and the two judges unanimously named Ross the winner.

But derisive boos cascaded over the Polo Grounds' ring as the Chicago Hebrew took over Jimmy's championship, and they continued unabated in the form of bitter arguments. Many wise in the ways of the ring were widely divided on the question of which is the greater warrior.

There was Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, saying with an Oxford accent, "McLarnin established a fine lead and won handily," while Benny Leonard, once the lightweight king, thought Ross was too fast for the Vancouver Irishman.

Matchmaker Jimmy Johnston of Madison Square Garden believed "McLarnin was clearly entitled to the decision," and President Bill Carey of the 20th Century Sporting Club concurred by saying, "I thought McLarnin won all the way."

For his 45 minutes of excellent fighting, McLarnin yesterday received a cheque for $42,526.52, a 40 per cent cut of the total gate of $118,894.21. Ross collected $26,579.07, 25 per cent.

Orange Crush to Play E.C.D. Team At Boyle Tonight

Bert Tonsi's Orange Crush nine will be seeking their second straight victory in the City Girls' Baseball League race tonight when they tackle the rejuvenated E.C.D. girls in a scheduled affair at the Boyle street sandlot starting at 6:30.

In a pre-season game the milk maids gave the Orange Crush club a bitter battle before they lost by a 5-3 count, and they are confident of registering a win tonight despite the fact that their opponents will enter as favorites to cop the decision.

Spring Race Meet Starts Saturday Over Local Track

Many Fine Entries Listed For Meet—Help Yourself Will Be Feature Horse Racing Here.

King of sports—the ponies—and all the thrills a fine list of entries can produce on the dirt track is the headline event for the Edmonton fan starting Saturday.

Completing a full week at Calgary, the ponies will be coming to town Saturday for a week's stay at the Exhibition grounds track and on Saturday the first race will get underway at 2.30 o'clock, while throughout the week the starting time is scheduled for 3.00 o'clock.

Between 250 and 300 horses have been prepped for the meeting and the calibre of thoroughbred stock which will be seen in action is equal to, if not better, than other years. A big school of riders also is on hand, among them boys who have booted 'em home under the "big tent" in other years.

Heading the aggregation of Western Canada breds so far as purse winnings last season are concerned, is the great Help Yourself, one of the best looking horses that ever stepped on a race track anywhere. He has not raced much during the winter season and should soon reach the form which he showed a year ago.

Others in the list of ten leading money winners on this race circuit last summer, in the order of the amounts won, follow:

OTHER GOOD ONES

Carhan King, a six-year-old gelding, owned by Mrs. R. Leavitt, won $2,780. He is by Nepperhan out of Carabosse (imp.). He won the Alberta Derby in 1932.

Don Marcus, a three-year-old chestnut gelding, also owned by Mrs. Leavitt, won $2,630. He is by Marcus Aurelius (imp.) out of Betty Gordon. He was second to Broadway Breeze in the Winnipeg Futurity.

Peachstone, a four-year-old chestnut gelding, owned by T. R. Stone, won $2,625. He is by Blond Buddy out of Shasta Peach. He won the Alberta Derby in 1934.

Caramar, a four-year-old brown colt, owned by Mrs. Leavitt, won $2,335. He is by Marcus Aurelius (imp.) out of Carabosse (imp.). He won the first running of the Manitoba Derby last year.

Bobby Thompson, a 7-year-old gelding, owned by L. Powley, won $2,172. He is by Dr. Joe out of Madamoiselle. He has been one of the most consistent western breds in training.

Just Cost, a 9-year-old gelding, owned by Bob Ramsay, won $2,045. He is by Hugh Cost out of Eunice Bailey. This is another consistent western bred sprinter.

Royal Flint, a 6-year-old gelding, owned by Sam Ross, won $2,020. He is by Captain Somers out of Miss Flint.

Joey, a 5-year-old gelding, owned by C. L. Jacques, won $1,905. He is by Dr. Joe out of Aileen Hoey. He was second in both the Alberta Derby and the Manitoba Derby in 1933.

ROYALS BEAT ST. PAT TEAM BY 2-1 SCORE

Scoring two goals with a late offensive drive in the last half, Norwood Royals gained a 2-1 decision over the St. Pats in their scheduled soccer match of the Edmonton and District Football league at the South Side Athletic grounds Wednesday night.

St. Pats taking up the offensive early in the opening session peppered the Royals nets with a series of shots before they assumed the lead on a gift goal when Neale drove the ball into his own net as he attempted to block an oncoming drive.

Some 15 minutes of play had elapsed in the second half before the Royals scored the equalizer, Cram waltzing in on a driving shot beat Mann by inches as the latter came out of his net to clear. Continuing their offensive drive the Royals finally managed to beat Mann for the second time when they launched a counter attack and Foster took the pass to beat Mann.

LINEUPS

St. Pats: Mann, Murdoch, R. Waring, Wynn, Barnes, Howells, Ross, Carse, Hudson, T. Waring, Williams.

Royals: G. Kerr, Haly, Neale, Cockburn, S. Kerr, McKilip, Smith, Foster, McDaniel, Cram and Groth.

DERBY DRAWS BIG CROWD

TAXAURELIUS WINS FEATURE ALBERTA RACE

Many Thrills Witnessed by Fans; Race Proves Spectacle

CALGARY, May 30.—There was a banner crowd at Chinook Park Wednesday afternoon to witness the fifth running of the great Alberta Derby. It is no exaggeration to say that the race provided a splendid spectacle, with more thrills and changes in running than any previous derby.

After some delay Mac Phalaris went off on what was probably a pace—making expedition to such purpose that he was five lengths clear at five and a half to six furlongs. Rounding the last turn Mac began to stop badly and up came Taxaurelius with Lady Aurelius shortening her stride and falling back from second position. At the head of the home stretch Marcus Docile became second, having closed smartly from last place in spectacular fashion. Probably feeling the effects of this effort, Marcus was never able to catch Taxaurelius, though making up two lengths in the last eighth. Des Lovely worked into third spot but failed to really get into contention, though an easy third at the finish

NELLIE QUINCE OUT

The favorite, Nellie Quince, lost ground at the start and got behind horses when trying to improve on the back stretch. She hardly reproduced the form of her winning exposition in the derby trial. Neither of the Whittier Stock Farm hopes ever showed in the race. The early leaders, Mac Pharlaris and Lady Aurelius, quit in the late stages, with Mac finishing last.

French Maid had to be much the best to win the opener. She was interfered with twice during the running and only by finding an opening on the rails in the straight was she able to close with the leaders.

The youngsters went three-eighths in the second, and after Margaret Malone had led into the straight she was caught by Good Han and Lady Ruth. The trio battled together with all riders hard at it. Good Han stood it best to finally win a good race.

WON DOING BEST

Bobby Thompson sprinted first from the gate with Tilleye getting to his head after a sixteenth. The latter stopped shortly afterwards and Monk's Dude slipped to the front on the rails while negotiating the bend to come out in the middle of the track, stand off Bobby Thompson under a drive and win doing his best. Just Cost closed ground in the last eighth. Chattahoochie ran a dull race. Strange Time had a weak ride. Bobby Thompson was claimed for $1000 by Messrs. Frasier and Huckett.

The daily doublt reward was, for a change, $2 less than a parley. All the same it was a goodly sum to collect.

Madfest had a runaway victory in the sixth, being many lengths ahead of his opponents. Foreign Club sped away from the rest for six furlongs of the seventh, but gave way when the steam was turned on and resigned the lead to Flisak, who was caught in the straight by Voltear and finally beaten easily.

Riding honors went to Joe Manz, who piloted a couple of winners.

"And now for Edmonton."

Ireland had a population of 8,295,061 in 1845, almost twice the present population of that country.

BASEBALL'S BIG SIX

The total hit production of the Big Six was three blows yesterday as half the membership was idle and the other half had a poor day at the plate. Bob Johnson, Pepper Martin and Jimmie Foxx each went to the plate four times for one hit apiece. As a consequence Johnson's average dropped five points and the other two lost four apiece. Their positions in the sextet remained unchanged although Johnson's margin over Arky Vaughan was clipped to two points:

BIG FIVE PLANS LEAGUE OPENER

The Big Five Baseball League, which for the past two seasons has played under that name, will be known as the Big Four circuit this season, as only four clubs will compete for honors, these being Empire hotel, Gibbons, York hotel and National Home Furnishers, North Edmonton dropping out.

Season's play will open on Friday evening at 6:30, when Empire hotel and York hotel nines will come to grips on the Boyle street sandlot. The opening game at Gibbons will be played Sunday with Empire hotel and the country nine locking horns at three o'clock.

The largest allied industry in the United States is the textile industry. Railroads rank second, public utilities third and construction fourth.

SAFEWAYS WIN OPENING GAME AT BOYLE ST.

Maybe those pained expressions which have clouded the usually genial features of Jack Bartley these past few days as he looked over his weakened team, will be missed around the ballyard today. If not they should be, for he filled the vacated positions on his team with new talent and his Safeway mob took a commanding 7-0 triumph over Tom Wilson's North Edmonton club in a junior baseball clash at Boyle street last night.

Though weakened by the loss of several players from last year's championship team, Safeways belted the ball for six hits, took advantage of five North Edmonton errors and worthily won the first junior league game at Boyle street.

MELNYK HIT LUCKY

Last night's game completed the 1935 introduction of the four teams completing the league, as Arrow Busses and Army and Navy opened the circuit last Sunday. The Arrows won and with the Safeway triumph last night the lead is now deadlocked.

A hard-hit ball by Bill Melnyk of Safeways to short stop started North Edmonton's fielding staff off on three innings of ill luck. Melnyk's drive to the short field was no doubt a lucky two-base knock, for the ball was driven straight at Bernie Wagner, only to strike a bump on the diamond and bound high into the air, then the errors started to come.

HIT STARTED IT

Two Safeway players had been retired and Hippo Lutz safely on first base after a single in the fourth when Melnyk drove the ball to short stop. It took a lucky bounce high over Wagner's head letting Lutz score, and an error to Ted Wilson registered Melnyk for the second tally.

Up until the fourth inning, North Edmonton had played a sturdy fielding game behind Tougas' flinging, but the fourth frame was followed by three equally as poor. In the fifth McPeak added to Safeways' total as Wagner made an error, and in the sixth Safeways scored two runs without getting even a single base blow. Three North Edmonton fumbles tallied these runs as Lutz and Melnyk crossed home plate for their second trip around the pathways.

The scoring was completed in the seventh on runs by McKay and Lutz. It was a two-base hit by Lutz that scored McKay and a wild throw by Tougas that brought in the final score.

HURLERS WERE GOOD

Just as rapidly as they "blew up" North Edmonton settled down in the eighth and ninth innings, but Ralph Morgan for Safeways also silenced the North Edmonton swatsman—and effectively.

The defeat was not Tougas' fault. The willowy flinger did right well and waged a near even mound duel with Morgan.

Tougas was touched for six safeties while Morgan gave five hits to North Edmonton. Morgan also led in the strike-outs with seven and Tougas was contented with six.

The North Edmonton performance, however, was pleasing in many respects. They show much greater promise of staying up in the league than they did last season, and Coaches Wagner and Youchim are confident the boys will tighten up in their fielding before many moons have passed.

There was, however, a pair of fielders claiming orchids from the floral offerings. Both, incidentally, are guardians of the left pastures, Rupert McPeak and Ted Wilson, making exceptionally fine attempts, were the pick of the "shaggers."

SACRED HEART AGAIN WINNER SPORTS MEET

Sacred Heart repeated their success of last year when athletes from that school dominated the annual field day of the Separate schools, held Tuesday afternoon at the Exhibition grounds.

When the last event of the day had been run off and the results totalled, they were well out in front of Grandin, their nearest rivals. The other schools trailed.

TOURING SCOTS WIN AT CALGARY

CALGARY, May 30.—In their first appearance in western Canada, the touring stars of the Scottish Football Association won their sixth straight North American victory here last night. Playing a select Alberta eleven, the tourists piled up a score of 9-1. At half-time they were leading by a 5-0 score.

Hugh Gallagher, centre forward from Derby County, led the Scottish, scoring four goals. William Mills and Douglas Duncan each counted two for the visitors and Alex Ferguson notched the other.

A crowd of approximately 5,000 sat throughout a heavy rain.
